

Walnut Creek Learning Community,

I hope you are having a wonderful summer and enjoying some quality time with your children!

I want to thank all the parents who supported their child's academic growth by encouraging them to complete at least one math and reading iReady lesson last week. As a school, we had 11% of our students complete and pass at least 1 iReady lesson last week. I'm confident that we can beat that percentage this week. iReady is a great tool to help students practice and improve their skills in these core subjects. Remind your kids that they can absolutely reach their goals - but only if they put in the hard work that it takes to continuously improve.

I also want to thank you for participating in the fun and engaging activity provided by our Creek science teachers. I hope you and your children learned something new and had some fun doing it.

This week, we have another exciting activity for you, created by the Walnut Creek Social Studies Department. You can find the link to the activity below.

I strongly encourage all parents to continue to support their children's learning by having them complete at least one Math and Reading iReady lesson per week and participate in the weekly activities. These activities are designed to help reduce the summer slide, which is the loss of academic skills that can occur during the summer break. By engaging in these activities, your children will be better prepared for the next school year and beyond.

Thank you for your partnership in your child's education. If you have any questions or feedback, please feel free to contact me directly. Have a great week!

Be well,

Seth Taboh
