

South County Art Association Instructor

Kris Greco

Kris Greco is a self-taught ceramic artist who shares more than 40 years of experience in wheel throwing and hand building with her students. She worked for a ceramic production company in Los Angeles for several years, taught high school ceramics for 11 years and is currently teaching wheel throwing and handbuilding at South County Art Association and Newport Art Museum. Kris' work is mainly functional ware, both wheel thrown and handbuilt. She presently works out of her home studio in Narragansett, Rhode Island and sells her work at South County Art Association, Casey Farm Market and does custom orders.
