EMAIL EXAMPLE:

PRO TIP: Do not write the price of the product in your blog post because prices are subject to change (increase or decrease all the time) and you don't want to mislead people. Most importantly, don't want to turn off people by the price, instead, you want them to be curious and intrigued so they click on your affiliate link to learn more about the Legal Bundle!

This is the reason you NEVER want to mention the price. Instead you want people to see the "value" they are getting.

Below is an email example of promoting my Legal Bundle. You can use this or change it as you wish.

This is a great example of what could work for you and remember to add your affiliate link and disclosure to it.

I promote tons of affiliate products to my email list and once you have made a relationship with your audience, you will see tons of people purchasing from your links. Also, give them a nice incentive to purchase through you link.

The legal side of blogging is not fun or easy!

Many bloggers struggle with writing their legal pages because they have no idea where to start!

You may find the legal stuff complicated, intimidating or maybe even boring?

Are you confused or overwhelmed? Don't be!

Trust me, I know because it was not easy for me. I wasted HOURS and DAYS trying to write the legalese myself until I realized I'm not a lawyer and shouldn't waste my time anymore. This was time I was taking AWAY from growing my business.

Nevertheless, I knew that the legal side of my online business is super important and to comply with the law, I needed legal pages on my website.

We all know hiring a lawyer to handle all this for you can be very expensive but it does not mean you should skip over the legal pages!

My friend, Amira at www.aselfguru.com is a lawyer and a blogger who has helped hundreds of entrepreneurs with their legal pages plus thousands of her clients!

She works full-time as a lawyer and has been working with business owners and entrepreneurs for more than 8 years helping them protect their online businesses legally!

I'm so glad I found her and her Legal Bundle, which is trusted by thousands of bloggers like me!
