Cornell Cooperative Extension of Steuben County has a financial program that can lend a helping hand with your financial challenges. They have trained Master Money Mentors ready to work with you one-on-one either in person, via zoom, or by telephone. The program is free to the public in Steuben County.

Maybe you've tried everything, but still can't pay your bills on time, or maybe you've experienced a job loss, illness, or divorce. Maybe you feel like your life is spinning out of control from overuse of credit. Whatever the reason for your financial concerns, it might be time to speak to a Master

Who are our Master Money Mentors?

These are tough economic times. Cornell Cooperative Extension's Master Money Mentor program has been developed to assist people with personal finances. Similar to the Extension Master Gardener program, Master Money Mentors see families with low to moderate income who are struggling financially.

Volunteer mentors have received approximately 10 hours of intensive training in basic money management strategies for dealing with financial problems, credit and debt management, saving, mentoring techniques, and connecting to community resources. Each volunteer is ready to give back to the community.
