At the point of acceptance, all contributing authors are asked to give signed consent to publication (as represented by corresponding author), to confirm that they have approved the final version of their manuscript and have made all required revisions, statements and declarations. The signature box for corresponding author can be found on the last page of this form.

It is the responsibility of the corresponding author to ensure that all sections of this documents and the final accepted version of the manuscript have been read and approved by each of the contributing authors.

Authors must understand and agree the publication ethics prior publications.

1. Originality and Plagiarism.

The authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if the authors have used the work and/or words of others, that this has been appropriately cited or quoted. Manuscripts that are found to have been plagiarized from a manuscript by other authors, whether published or unpublished, will be rejected and the authors may incur sanctions. Any published articles may need to be corrected or retracted.

2. Fabrication and Falsification

The authors of submitted manuscripts or published articles that are found to have fabricated or falsified the results, including the manipulation of images, may incur sanctions, and published articles may be retracted.

3. Multiple, redundant or concurrent publication

An author should not in general publish manuscripts describing essentially the same research in more than one journal or primary publication. Submitting the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently constitutes unethical publishing behavior and is unacceptable.

4. Authorship of the paper

Authorship should be limited to those who have made a significant contribution to the conception, design, execution, or interpretation of the reported study. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors. Where there are others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the research project, they should be acknowledged or listed as contributors.

5. Hazards and human or animal subjects

If the work involves chemicals, procedures or equipment that have any unusual hazards inherent in their use, the author must clearly identify these in the manuscript. If the work involves the use of animal or human subjects, the author should ensure that the manuscript contains a statement that all procedures were performed in compliance with relevant laws and institutional guidelines and that the appropriate institutional committee(s) has approved them. Authors should include a statement in the manuscript that informed consent was obtained for experimentation with human subjects.

6. Conflict of Interests

All authors should disclose in their manuscript any financial or other substantive conflict of interest that might be construed to influence the results or interpretation of their manuscript. All sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed.

7. Proofread

The author should assure that their manuscript has been proofread by English Editing Service.

Authors (represented by the corresponding author) affirm that the manuscript has been prepared in accordance with the Publisher instructions to authors. If there is an indication of publication malpractice, all authors are fully responsible and subject to accept sanctions in accordance with the applicable laws and regulations.
