

You had to practice. You should have rehearsed what you were going to say before the presentation. You could have rehearsed at home, or you might have practiced with your friends.

For next time, you must practice more. You should remember all the words before the presentation. You could also try speaking louder. You had better use clear text and diagrams for your slides. And whatever you do, make sure you turn your phone off before the presentation.

You might want to think more about your body language. If I were you, I would use gestures and smile more when I'm in front of the class.

Have you thought about wearing formal clothes? You ought to look nice when you're doing a presentation. And why don't you give an outline to your audience, so that they can follow along with you. And whatever you do, don't turn your back to your audience.

Advice with modals in the present/future	Advice with modals in the past	Advice using if	Other expressions
You might want to...	You could have...	If I were you, I would...	Why don't you...?	Weakest
You can/could...	You might have...		Have you thought about...?
You should...	You should have...		Whatever you do, don't...!
You ought to...	You had to...		Whatever you do, make sure to...!
You had better (you'd better)...
You must (not)...
				Strongest

You might want to...	You can/could...
You should...	You ought to...
You had better...	You must (not)...
You could have...	You might have...
You should have...	You had to...
If I were you, I would...	Why don't you... ?
Have you thought about... ?	Whatever you do, don't... !
Whatever you do, make sure to...!

When you meet your friends after school, you can't stop talking about Mrs. Frisby. They have been starting to avoid you.	You keep seeing Adam everywhere you go. You are sure he is following you.
You are addicted to doing micro-listenings at home, and you are not sure how you will survive once you finish all of the units.	You can't concentrate on what Adam says because he's so ruggedly handsome.
Someone else in this class keeps wearing exactly the same clothes as you. It is really starting to annoy you.	You have won lots of games in class, but the teacher never gives out any prizes. You can't stop thinking about all the prizes you should have gotten.
You have no idea what to do at the end of the course.	The teacher keeps making you move tables, but you have a lot of bags, books, and drinks you need to carry. It's not convenient.
The teacher never calls on you in class. You're beginning to feel left out.	When you know the answer, the teacher never calls on you. But when you don't know the answer, he calls on you every time.
You keep trying to get your friends to play Quizlet Live with you, but none of them will do it.	You can't stay awake in class without coffee. But now you're spending too much money on coffee.
When you meet your friends at a coffee shop, you keep giving them numbers and asking them to change tables. They have threatened you with violence.	When you meet your old friends from high school, you don't feel comfortable unless they are wearing their IDs around their neck.

It's difficult to arrive in class on time.	It's hard to pay attention in class.
I feel stressed out by all the homework.	It's hard to get enough sleep.
The stress of the test makes it difficult for me to focus on the listening audio.	Even though I know the grammar rule, when I speak in English I still make mistakes.
It's difficult to manage my time in order to get all the homework done.	I get nervous about English speaking in front of my classmates.
I can't hear the words on the micro listening.	I don't have enough time to relax.
I keep getting distracted by my phone when I should be studying.	I feel so sleepy in class sometimes.
I feel like I don't understand anything in the class, but I don't know who to ask.	I can't remember all the vocabulary.
I'm not sure what I want to do after I graduate.	I'm not interested in my major, but my parents want me to study it.
I have trouble with getting the rhythm and intonation right when I speak English.	I can never remember how to pronounce new words.