1.

I chose my topic by looking for one that would seem to be able to have an argument around it, this was the one. My topic relates to the annual theme of "Debate and diplomacy" by their being debates around what should happen in the movement and diplomacy in finding peaceful ways to fix problems the movement was trying to fix.

2.

I conducted my research by looking at many sources both easy and hard to find to learn more about the topic and build an argument.

3.

I wrote about the topic and wrote about my argument. I put all kinds of information on a board and called it my exhibit.

4.

To sum it up, my historical argument is that the Chicago freedom rights movement was a failure in what it was trying to do, get rid of slums and segregation in Chicago.

5.

The Chicago freedom movement started the practice of better housing practices through the fair housing act. Bringing awareness to the problem of slums and segregation to the U.S.
