

1. We're thinking about having our employees dress up as clowns on Fridays to help with employee morale. What are your thoughts on that?
2. We're thinking about having our employees dress up as superheroes on Fridays to help employee morale. What are your thoughts on that?
3. We're thinking about having our employees wear their pajamas to work on Fridays to help with employee morale. What are your thoughts on that?
4. We're thinking about having a "bring your best friend to work" day. What are your thoughts on that?
5. We're thinking about having a wear-your-clothes backwards day to help with morale. What are your thoughts on that?
6. Management has been trying to build morale for our employees. We're thinking a company-wide service project might help. What are your thoughts on hosting a community dinner for the homeless on Thanksgiving day, where all of our employees would participate?
7. We're thinking about installing a bouncy castle at work to help with morale. What are your thoughts on that?
8. We think employees painting each other's faces with rainbows and unicorns would help with morale at work. What are your thoughts on that?
9. We want to set up a swimming pool in the break room to help with employee morale. What do you think about that?

10. We want to start a “cook for your colleagues” day at work, where you bring in a home cooked meal big enough to serve everyone in the office. What are your thoughts on that?
11. We think sending our employees to trapeze school would help with morale. What are your thoughts on that?
12. We’re thinking about hiring a string quartet to play in the lobby. What are your thoughts on that?
13. Since you are applying for a management position, we should let you know that we are thinking about setting up a dunking booth behind our building every other Friday for a few hours so our employees can have a “dunk the boss” day. What are your thoughts on that?
14. At XYZ, we really like undertaking service projects for local nonprofit organizations. This year we are thinking about setting up at the closest busy intersection and collecting donations from drivers. What are your thought on that?