Even though I'd never talked to him before...

I already knew where my crush was heading this Friday evening (thanks Instagram stalking).

So I found myself in that same bar — sitting a table across from the handsome man my heart so desperately desired.

Yet I didn't know how to take advantage of this golden opportunity.

As extreme FOMO panic of missing my chance was taking over my body,

And as my heartbeat was going up and up and UP,

Suddenly I remembered a gossip article I read last month:

*The Sudden Seductive Sexy
Look To Throw At Your Crush Next Time You Meet Eyesight!*

So I took a deep breath “😬uuuuuuuuuuUM”

I changed my facial expression, trying to imitate the one from the picture in the gossip article.

And the moment I got it...

I looked my crush directly in the eyes, waiting for him to look back.

AND HE DID!

But then I realized I was looking like the complete idiot.

Immediately I turned around and covered my face with hands, ready to cry my eyes out.

A few minutes later I felt a slight tap on my shoulder.

As I slowly turned around... Who do I see!

He is standing there...

MY CRUSH!

2 months later

We've been dating for quite some time now.

And every time we look back on that moment in the bar, he comments:

"I actually DID take your look as a sign of interest. And obviously that's why I approached."
