- This material is the authors' own original work, which has not been previously published elsewhere.
- The manuscript is not currently being considered for publication elsewhere.
- The manuscript reflects the authors' own research and analysis in a truthful and complete manner.
- The manuscript properly credits the meaningful contributions of co-authors and co-researchers.

Commitment

By submitting a manuscript to SEAMSJ, the authors are committed to the revision process. When both peer-reviewers have accepted the manuscript for publication (as is, with minor changes, and/or with major changes), the authors are committed to improving the manuscript according to the reviewers' suggestions and requests and the editors' guidance until it is published. Withdrawing the manuscript at any point after the peer-review process is highly discouraged because the SEAMSJ editorial team invests considerable resources in the peer-review process. Should the authors still wish to withdraw the manuscript after the peer-review, they have to submit a statement outlining the reasons.
