The group, which was founded in 2010 by artistic director Clare Stewart, comprises a soprano (Penelope Appleyard), mezzo-soprano (Clare Stewart), two tenors (with the new appointment to join Joseph Taylor) and bass (Augustus Perkins Ray). Repertoire spans over 500 years, from early music, including plainsong and Renaissance polyphony, to twentieth-century classical song and folk, pop and jazz standards. The group maintains a busy touring schedule, and regularly gives performances in the USA, France, Germany, and other European destinations, as well as at prestigious venues in London and across the UK. As of 2025, APOLLO5 has new general management which covers bookings in the UK and globally, and a new agent in the USA in addition to agents in Germany and France, which is part of an effort to develop the group's profile at home and internationally. We will also be offering 2 seminars, One on how to prepare a role from the first time you open the score through your first staged performance; and one on audition preparation and presentation for both virtual and live auditions. This will include a mock audition, with feedback.

April 01, 2025 - March 31, 2026

New York Opera Forum is a New York institution that is in its 42nd year. We have an exciting upcoming season to help singers learn their standard role repertoire and develop the confidence to move on to professionally perform these roles after this experience. NYOF has been an early training ground for too many working singers today to name, and we would love to add your name to that long list.

If cast, singers receive 2 one-hour private coaching sessions, 12-16 hours of rehearsal, 1 full dress rehearsal, and 2 public performances

Roles are all triple cast, concert version performances, on-book.
Additional coachings are available at a discounted rate, if desired.

Performances are low profile by design, to allow for singer's growth in the performance process without panic of a mistake being written about in the blogosphere. This creates a safe space to explore your craft and artistry, and truly know how the role works under performance pressure. This knowledge gained prior to memorization of the role is invaluable.

Please note that the nyoperaforum.com website has not been updated since COVID. We use Facebook and other social media almost exclusively to promote performances.

Payment is not provided

The tuition for most roles is $375, with some smaller roles $350. There are some cover opportunities offered for $100 less per role. The fee for the seminars will be $150.
