

The Hellfire Sitcom Reboot

This is a reboot of a previous concept by the Hellfire Girls Club marketing team. A new sitcom that will be produced by Amazon Prime and will star four Hellfire members, alongside Sydney Sweeney from the Badass Barbies. Various other UCC fighters are also scheduled to appear as guest stars. The sitcom is yet to be titled.

Starring Anya Taylor-Joy and Millie Bobby Brown as two aspiring MMA fighters who share an apartment together. Although their personalities may clash, they are good friends. Anya is focused and single minded, whereas Millie works hard but is always on the lookout for love.

Co-starring Sydney Sweeney as the MMA rookie who moves in next door to Anya and Millie.

Also featured are Aubrey Plaza and Samara Weaving, who portray friends of Anya and Millie.

S01 E03: Finger Banging

When Millie sees Sydney kissing another girl in front of her apartment door, she feels devastated, thinking Sydney has "rejected" her. Millie has been collecting Sydney's mail daily to have an excuse to see her every day when she returns from work at the Raccoon Cafe.

Aubrey and Samara encourage Millie to date someone else from their all-female MMA training group, so she approaches fellow fighter Florence Pugh. Millie proposes a bikini-only cage fight, and Florence realizes this is Millie's way of asking her out. Florence suggests skipping to finger banging each other to quickly determine their sexual compatibility. Despite the scientific approach, Florence finds being felt up good but unfulfilling and declines to pursue a relationship.

As Millie becomes more depressed she considers buying a cat (potential names include Leni, Hanna-Maria, and Victoria), Anya points out that Millie never actually asked Sydney out. Encouraged, Millie asks Sydney to dinner, but Sydney misinterprets it as a group hangout at their apartment.

Before the "date," Millie is extremely nervous and asks Anya for advice. Anya, clueless about Millie's nervousness, offers no helpful suggestions. Millie ends up taking another shower due to excessive sweating.

At the semi-fancy restaurant, Millie explains the absence of her friends (Samara and Aubrey have to train at Hellfire, and Anya has her period). Sydney clarifies that the girl Millie saw her kissing was not her girlfriend but just a casual fling, something which helps her get over relationships.

Excited and regaining confidence, Millie accidentally hurts herself with a fork. Sydney takes her home, but Millie somehow orgasms in Sydney's car, ending the evening awkwardly. Millie misses the chance to reveal her true feelings when Sydney asks if it was a date, although Sydney seems to suspect Millie's intentions.

(Florence Pugh guest stars as Millie's sexual distraction)

S01 E04: The Suspension

At the Hellfire Girls Club training facility Anya is suspended after insulting Kaley Cuoco. Anya believes that Kaley has done nothing original in cage fighting and has instead spent all her time daydreaming about Travis.

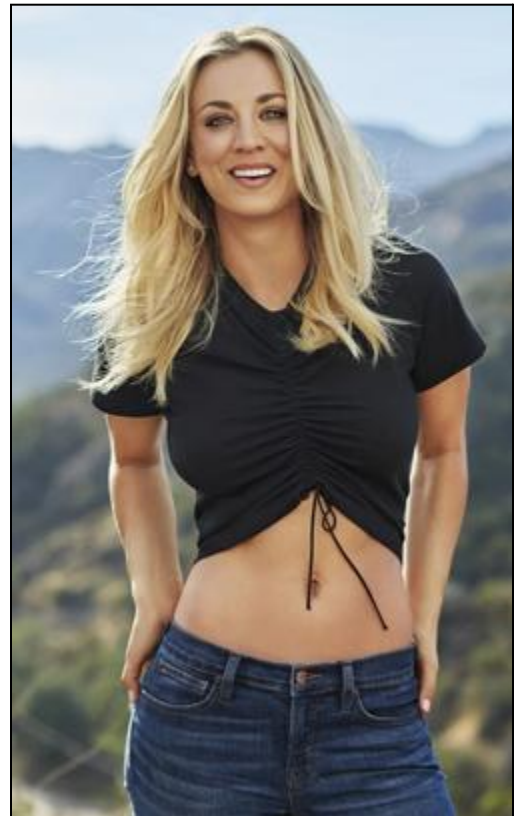

Anya's suspension triggers a downward spiral of depression in which she goes shopping with Sydney and gives her a lecture about maintaining safe distance from cars with bald men driving. Anya tries to convince Millie that multivitamins are a waste (they are just a recipe for expensive urine since the human body can only absorb so many vitamins). Anya tries to calculate how many tampons she will need before she hits menopause and claims that women can save enormous amounts of money by purchasing supplies in bulk rather than buying them one month at a time. She also has a business idea for creating a mail order company for bulk supplies of vibrators with UCC logos imprinted on them.

Worried, Millie calls Anya's mother, Jennifer Marina Joy. When she visits, the girls realize she is the complete opposite of their expectations: she is a Zambian psychologist and a loving and caring mother. Anya is of course livid at Millie for calling her mother, as it seems that Anya is not able to ignore Jennifer as she does the rest of her friends.

Aubrey tries to hit on Jennifer, which is gently pushed back. Anya's mother cooks chicken and asks Samara if chickens are one of the animals that Australians worship. She tells a story of how at 8, Anya refused to learn how to speak English.

Jennifer finally forces Anya to apologize to Kaley (she explains to Anya that it is fine for Anya to be pretty and blonde, but it is not OK for her to throw this in everyone's face and make them feel bad about it). Anya is given her job back after Jennifer flirts with Kaley.

Later that night at her apartment, Anya asks Jennifer if Kaley is going to be her new second mother, to which Jennifer gives an ambiguous answer.

(Kaley Cuoco guest stars as Anya's cause for depression)