

TITTLE: My appreciation gift.

Hey Liam,

I have been following you for a while now and I especially enjoyed watching your fights with Saenchai. Truly amazing high-level fights, plus it was clear that you two have a lot of respect for each other, and that made it even better.

Every now and then I watch some of your technique videos too, for example, your left hook video really helped me to get a lot more power into my punches, thank you.

Recently I saw that you have a great program liamharrisontraining.com and as an ambitious business consultant and as a kickboxer too, my curiosity got the better of me and I just had to look into it.

From looking at your business from the outside I noticed that you do most of your advertising on your IG account and your YT channel. You have great videos/ads on your IG, but I feel like they just need to trigger a bit more pain and desire in your audience to get them fired up and ready to buy.

Now because I love martial arts and I too believe in helping other fighters plus it seemed like good fun writing for something fighting-related, I actually made you an IG ad/ IG post to get them fired up and get them to your sales page.

Let me know if you think that the promise in the ad is too big.

And just in case if you are too busy to respond, I wish you the best of luck in all of your future business and fights.

Tilen.

P.S. If you do not like opening random links from strangers, let me know and I will send you screenshots, but here is the link anyways:

hey guys which email do you think that is better to email him. the one on his YT channel or the one on his IG?
