

National Plot Expectations

This policy will go into effect with each Venue reset, starting with Apocalypse on 2/2017

Large Scale National Plot

National Plot is considered to be large scale, which are sweeping elements that should touch the entire game. It will be distributed into the game by the following methods:

- Regional or Venue level plot kits
- NPC channels (such as via the Lineage Project in Masquerade)
- MES Convention games
- Semi-annual proxy events

Limited Scale National Plot

Some National Level Plot is limited in scale, which is considered exclusive due to a smaller amount of participants. Members of the National Staff will run this plot directly.

How do players get chosen to participate in Limited Scale National Plot?

- Players may be chosen after the completion of VST or RST level plot-kits
- Players may be seeded plot elements at MES Conventions to follow up on
- Players who go above and beyond to make the gaming experience better for the players around them may be rewarded with inroads to this type of plot.
- Players should not expect to participate too often in Limited Scale National Plot. Players may be asked to sit out if they have already participated in such plots within the same calendar year.

Participation in Limited Scale National Plot

- Plot that is run directly by any member of the National Staff will be inherently full of risks. Every player who chooses to participate in this level of plot does so with the understanding that they may lose their PC during the encounter.
- Players who are chosen to participate in Limited Scale National Plot understand that it is a privilege and not a right. They may be disallowed to participate in, or later removed from this type of plot due to poor OOC behavior.
- Participation in one Limited Scale National Plot does not guarantee further inclusion in the future.
