Oleander will drive you into the future with the futuristic dark-magic jam.

Them's Fightin' Herds® is a 2D indie fighting game featuring adorable animal characters designed by acclaimed cartoon producer Lauren Faust. Previously, the video game was a My Little Pony™ fan game, known as Fighting is Magic, featuring the Mane Six ponies (Twilight Sparkle, Fluttershy, Pinkie Pie, Rainbow Dash, Rarity, Applejack) as playable characters. With some changes that the development team applied, Them's Fightin' Herds® has become a distinctive yet adorable video game.

Oleander is one of Them's Fightin' Herds® main characters (previously Twilight Sparkle in Fighting is Magic) - a black unicorn from The Woodlands. She used to be pure white like the rest of her kind, but her coat became black due to the dark magic she controls. The Oleander track represents her darkness quite well with the tough-dark futuristic synth and unique depressing melodies. For the Them's Fightin' Herds® players, this song might be familiar, especially with church organ and arpeggio, as it shares a similar one with the original Oleander theme song in the game.

The fact is, the track contributor, Voltex Pixel, said that the song Oleander was supposed to be the Oleander theme remix. However, he ended up making an original track that fits the Oleander character because he wanted to deliver a fresh new experience as an Oleander track. He also mentioned that his lately busy schedules almost made him a crunch to finish this musical project (in a time-effective way).

Meanwhile, the video shows many Oleander artworks worked by several talented artists - some works display her cuteness while some others show Oleander's epic moment of using her magic.

"Your Idea To Share": Which one is your favorite Oleander artwork? Please let everyone get heard about your comment!

Every friendship is important because friends keep us mentally and physically strong as well as helping us weather lonely times, whether it is a between ponies thing or beyond the pony-to-pony relationship, which includes other species such as dragons, yaks, and Kirins. Here got the track about the friendship of dragons: Flame To Fire - a collaboration track by Voltex Pixel and two other musicians.

Every friendship is important because friends keep us mentally and physically strong as well as helping us weather lonely times, whether it is a between ponies thing or beyond the pony-to-pony relationship, which includes other species such as dragons, yaks, and Kirins. Here goes the track about the friendship of dragons: Flame To Fire - a collaboration track by three musicians Voltex Pixel, Cynifree, and Paloris.

To frankly say, in the My Little Pony™ franchise (G4), Equestria ponies used to have no good impression of dragons in the first place due to personality differences and their dangerous characteristics like a flame coming from their mouth. However, since Princess Ember became the ruler of the Dragon land, the two species began to communicate and have more interests in each other instead of side-to-side hostility.

Spike & Smolder are known as the best dragon friends in My Little Pony: Friendship is Magic, which Flame To Fire represents this very well with using their amazing duo-alike vocal chop! Also, the dubstep-influenced musical style shows the unique strength of dragons - their powerfulness altogether with their gentle.

One of the track contributors, Voltex Pixel, said that he had to face several difficulties in this music creation. First, he had to invite the collaborators to complete the track in urgent, followed by some unexpected consequences making the production process extremely difficult. Also, he had to face the threat of Coronavirus pneumonia when he was in the production - at the same time that his country declared a national-level emergency due to the COVID-19 critical impacts. No wonder the progress was beyond facing usual difficulties! The artist strongly mentioned that he hopes for everyone to be able to overcome the COVID-19 threat, including the people in [Community Name Here]!

Your next favorite music would be this one - Stuck In The Cloud by Voltex Pixel & Camelia! In the My Little Pony™ franchise, including Friendship is Magic and Pony Life, Fluttershy is one of the most adorable pegasus ponies. Stuck In The Cloud represents Fluttershy very well - for instance, the sound of the bell synthesizers seems to show her shyness, and its electronic dancey part introduces her bright personalities.

Your next favorite music would be this one - Stuck In The Cloud by Voltex Pixel and Camelia!

In the My Little Pony™ franchise (G4), including My Little Pony: Friendship is Magic cartoon shows and the recent My Little Pony: Pony Life animation series, Fluttershy - the kindness in the element of harmony - is one of the most adorable pegasus ponies. She is shy and timid yet the most mature-minded pony among the Mane Six, the six main characters as well as the world savior of the fourth generation franchise. Stuck In The Cloud represents Fluttershy very well - for instance, the sound of the bell synthesizers seems to show her shyness, and its electronic dancey part introduces her bright personalities.

The Future Bounce-influenced musical style also fits the Fluttershy characteristics as well with its distinct bright theme. One of the track contributors, Voltex Pixel, mentioned that he had put more priorities on making the track more like Fluttershy during the music production with Camelia. Instead of starting from his template, the production was from scratch then went in progress with referring to it.
