

When even skies can't comprehend their own twisted fate
Believe that all the wrong deeds have been made because of faith
And now the sorrow falls heavily we are soaked in our blindness
Let your eyelids seize the picture close the shutters burn the curtains

Intertwined with death telling her all my deepest secrets
People are scared of fading away and I'm the one left here to keep her
We share the same thoughts, same admiration for pain
But after all it's just my psychedelic side screaming in vain

Looking through my brainless visor at the sun dying out from the horizon
I can clarify the burns, it's the righteous fire deep within my heart beating drums of the part I have played in this god forsaken scheme and though I'm the one who's lost I'm taking you with me down to Tartarus you're not gonna win Anytime soon... Let's just count the days I can keep my mind set

This path of no tomorrow is the last step for me
My ultimate efforts before I break and bow down on my knees
Before I set my soul on fire burn like autumn trees
Their leaves depart their homes like my loveless heart flees Solitude is what we seek Though dead inside we end up futile and weak