The copied form will be entirely separate from the original, and any responses it collects will go to the person who made the copy, not the original creator.

1. Copying the Form: The person who receives the link should open it. Copy the link and put it in the browser tab.

A screenshot of a web browser displaying a Google Form titled "Client Onboarding Questionnaire Form". The browser's address bar shows the URL "docs.google.com/forms/d/14YbFoLoO4-qI_AmohpWnIEU6S29d2YzwsaeRZ6s/edit". A red box highlights this URL, and a red arrow points from it to the "Questions" tab in the form's navigation bar. The form itself has a light purple background and contains a welcome message, a paragraph about the importance of the information provided, and a text input field for "Tell me about your business and its core mission." The "Responses" and "Settings" tabs are also visible in the navigation bar.

2. They should then click on the three dots (More) in the upper right corner of the form.

3. Select "Make a copy." This will create a new instance of the form in their Google Drive, and any responses to this form will be collected in their account.

4. Customizing the Copied Form: The new owner can now edit and customize the copied form independently, without affecting the original form.

Below the header, there are three tabs: "Questions", "Responses", and "Settings". The main content area is divided into two sections. The first section contains a welcome message and a description of the form's purpose. The second section is a "Long answer text" field with a placeholder text "Tell me about your business and its core mission." On the right side of the form, there is a vertical toolbar with icons for adding, deleting, and other actions.
