

Exercise:

Write two paragraphs about the differences and similarities between your city and the city you live in now.

This is your first writing assignment, so make sure you try to express yourself well! As you write, don't spend a lot of time worrying about correct spelling, punctuation or grammar. These are important parts of writing, but can be corrected at the end. Simply try to communicate how your city is different from this one, and how it is similar. Remember, writing is just another form of communication.

If you are studying English in your city, write two paragraphs about the difference between your city and another city or place that you have visited many times.
