

Before Alternate Reality

Hypothetically born on August 19th, year unknown, Igneus Delacruz claimed to have been with the Sunbeams since season 1, though she and the other players have a hard time recalling details of his life before the [[Hellmouth]] swallowed ██████.

Delacruz has a degree in Wildlife Management at Hellmouth Community College. Their education came in handy when a wolf got loose in the locker room snack area. The Wolf Snack Incident ended when Delacruz befriended the wolf, and subsequently ate it. Of the event, Delacruz said that ze would not have eaten the wolf if only it hadn't eaten all of the Lemon Cake Batter protein bars.

During the early seasons of Blaseball, Delacruz was seen spending a lot of time in her teammate [[Malik Romaine]]'s restaurant, Romaine's Romaine. They were married during a game in [[The Hotdogfingers Memorial Climate Pledge Garage and Parking Facility]] on Day 47 of [[Season 2]]. The two of them shared a house on the outskirts of [[Hellmouth]]. They were lauded^[by who?] as an example of a successful relationship between blaseball players.

Delacruz was known for his flashy way of fielding ground balls, which involved an ember-style summoning rune burned into the palm of their blaseball glove. While this technique achieved little success their first season, Delacruz's performance dramatically improved without precedent hir second season. Delacruz was known for her skills as a dangerous and sly outfielder, able to play either left or right field, but never, ever center.

Fans are fervent in their belief that Igneus Delacruz is, in fact, the hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams.

After Alternate Reality

The version of Igneus Delacruz who appeared from the alternate reality swap goes by "Iggy." Little is known about the universe they swapped from, although there are reports that they were confused when they found themselves no longer playing for {Moab}. Iggy Delacruz filled the role of xir alternate in many ways, and a variety of similarities were found between the two, including xem having xir own version of the [[Wolf Snack Incident]].

Personal Life

Initially, Delacruz continued their predecessor's relationship with Romaine. The gradual breakdown of this relationship due to the stress of alternating lead to the now-former teammates quietly ending their romantic relationship just prior to Romaine's feedback to the [[Houston Spies]].

Despite difficulties in Delacruz's adjustment to their role as an alternate, he has developed close relationships with teammates [[Miguel James]] and [[Zack Sanders]]. Delacruz and James are a common sight driving around Hellmouth in a barbie car. Their antics are famous, and the corresponding exasperation of Sanders is nearly as well known.

The Grand Siesta gave Delacruz an opportunity to distinguish herself from her predecessor. She was seen out with a variety of players from around the ILB, and was quoted as saying that she was 'ready to date again'. Delacruz also joined Miguel James and [[Sigmund Castillo]] in spending time with [[The Smokehouse Gang]]. Towards the end of the siesta, she was often spotted with [[Charleston Shoe Thieves]] batter [[Howell Franklin]] and it is rumoured that they have entered into a relationship.

Many fans are fervent in their belief that Iggy Delacruz is, in fact, the second hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams. The title of the hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams has gone to <choose>Any Beam Lmao</choose>.

Career

Delacruz was surprised to discover that Igneus had been a Sunbeams captain before the Alternate Reality swap, and chose not to take on that role due to insecurities related to their lower star count compared to their predecessor. After gradually recovering some of her batting ability, xir allergic reaction in Season 9 once again decimated both their batting ability and their confidence.

During the [[season 10 election]], Delacruz was cured of his peanut allergy due to the Nut Button blessing. This was followed by Delacruz valiantly failing to steal 2nd base to prevent a loop in the final game of season 11, contributing to the championship win for the Sunbeams.

While playing a game against the Miami Dale on day 52 of Season 12, Delacruz baffled league officials by forcing teammate [[Nerd Pacheco]] to run around her while she stayed on third base in the 5th inning, resulting in Pacheco getting a run on [[Hahn Fox's]] sac bunt. Iggy was quoted saying "You have legs? Go around me," in response to being yelled at by Pacheco to run home.

In Season 14, Day 48, Delacruz was swept :elsewhere:. Ze returned [[Scattered]] after 23 days. They remained scattered until day 104, and there are reports that the extended time it took to recover was associated with their spotty memory from before blaseball.

Trivia

- Many people assume that Delacruz's iconic flaming blue head is xir adaptation, but when asked xe insists that's just how xe is.
- Delacruz's low baserunning stars are sometimes explained by the fact that ze insists on playing many games in heels.

- Delacruz has never once been spotted dressed appropriately for the weather and is constantly cold, despite his head being on fire.
- Delacruz has been known to wear a variety of blaseball teams' booty shorts as well as a pair reading "Hellmouth Community College." [link to: https://www.blaseballcares.com/collections/all/type_shorts?page=1]
- Delacruz is famous as the inventor of the world's most popular fire hair dye, a variety of minerals which can create colours and effects when applied to fire. They are an integral part of her home run celebration routine.
- Delacruz considers seemingly any sequel movie to be their favorite even if and in spite of popular opinion stating that the films should have never been made in the first place.
- Delacruz is notorious for shredding any paper they can when they have access to a shredding machine. In order to avoid the loss of important documents, letters, or photos, shredding machines are now banned from the Solarium.
- Delacruz and their teammate, [[Zack Sanders]], have become a figure skating duo since their experience on Athletico Latte in the Coffee Cup. Despite being both rivals and best friends their justification is that "them hating each other creates off the ice drama they can bring to their on the ice routines or something along those lines." Nobody fully gets what this means, but they're not great at ice skating.

If youre looking at this from the Talk Page on the Wiki, everything past this the workspace and also edit reference but mostly is the same as above actually! But you can look lmao :)

HEY PLEASE PUT IDEAS ABOUT OG IGNEUS AND MALIK'S RELATIONSHIP HERE :)

Im gonna make some shit up babey - we could ask the spies too?

- they have a house ! :thumbsup:
- Maybe put in a lead in like 'During the early seasons of Blaseball Delacruz was seen spending a lot of time in her teammate [[Malik Romaine]]'s restaurant. During Season 2, on day 47, they were married during a game.' literally just to bulk it out babey

Okay thost

During the early seasons of Blaseball Delacruz was seen spending a lot of time in her teammate [[Malik Romaine]]'s restaurant. They were married during a game on Day 47 of Season 2. The two of them shared a house on the outskirts of [[Hellmouth]].

Before Alternate Reality

Personal Life

Hypothetically born on August 19th, year unknown, Igneus Delacruz claimed to have been ~~on the team before the change in location,~~ with the Sunbeams since season 1, though she and the other players have a hard time recalling details of his life before the [[Hellmouth]] swallowed Delacruz has a degree ~~major~~ed in Wildlife Management at Hellmouth Community College. ~~His~~ Their education came in handy when a wolf got loose in the locker room snack area. The Wolf Snack Incident ended when Delacruz befriended the wolf, and subsequently ate it. Of the event, Delacruz said that ~~they~~ ze would not have eaten the wolf if only it hadn't eaten all of the Lemon Cake Batter protein bars.

~~During Season 2, on day 47, teammates Malik Romaine and Delacruz were married during a game.~~

During the early seasons of Blaseball, Delacruz was seen spending a lot of time in her teammate [[Malik Romaine]]'s restaurant, Romaine's Romaine. They were married during a game in [[The Hotdogfingers Memorial Climate Pledge Garage and Parking Facility]] on Day 47 of [[Season 2]]. The two of them shared a house on the outskirts of [[Hellmouth]]. They were lauded^[by who?] as an example of a successful relationship between blaseball players.

Career

Delacruz ~~is~~ was known for ~~their~~ his flashy way of fielding ground balls, which involved an ember-style summoning rune burned into the palm of their blaseball glove. ~~They achieved~~ While this technique achieved little success in the Moab, but since the descent into the Hellmouth their play has improved: their first season, Delacruz's performance dramatically improved without precedent hir second season. ~~Delacruz is a~~ Delacruz was known for her skills as a dangerous and sly outfielder, able to play either left or right field, but never, ever center.

~~In Delacruz's second or third or fourth season with the Sunbeams they began to struggle with one of their throwing arms. As it is impossible to know when Delacruz started playing blaseball (or even when the sport even came into existence), the exact date of her shoulder surgery cannot be pinpointed. All that is known is that their lower left (or right, that arm seems to shift positions in unfathomable ways) was repaired with a combination of arcane magicks and the surgical talents of a very famous and very suspicious sports doctor.~~

~~During spring training for the "first" season, Delacruz spent time under the tutelage of legendary batting coach Determination Montgomery. With this help, Delacruz was able to bring their pre-season post batting mid-average up from .120 to a cool .237. The Hellmouth Tribune reported that Montgomery was so moved by the effort Delacruz put forth that they gave Delacruz a half-star from their own rating.~~

Fans are fervent in their belief that Igneus Delacruz is, in fact, the hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams.

After Alternate Reality

The version of Igneus Delacruz who appeared from the alternate reality swap goes by "Iggy."

Little is known about the universe they swapped from, although there are reports that they were confused when they found themselves no longer playing for {Moab}. Iggy Delacruz filled the role of xir alternate in many ways, and a variety of similarities were found between the two, including xem having xir own version of the [[Wolf Snack Incident]].

Personal Life

Initially, Delacruz continued their predecessor's relationship with Romaine. The gradual breakdown of this relationship due to the stress of alternating lead to the now-former teammates quietly ending their romantic relationship just prior to Romaine's feedback to the [[Houston Spies]].

Despite difficulties in Delacruz's adjustment to their role as an alternate, he has developed close relationships with teammates [[Miguel James]] and [[Zack Sanders]]. Delacruz and James are a common sight driving around Hellmouth in a barbie car. Their antics are famous, and the corresponding exasperation of Sanders is nearly as well known.

The Grand Siesta gave Delacruz an opportunity to distinguish herself from her predecessor. She was seen out with a variety of players from around the ILB, and was quoted as saying that she was 'ready to date again'. Delacruz also joined Miguel James and [[Sigmund Castillo]] in spending time with [[The Smokehouse Gang]]. Towards the end of the siesta, she was often spotted with [[Charleston Shoe Thieves]] batter [[Howell Franklin]] and it is rumoured that they have entered into a relationship.

Many fans are fervent in their belief that Iggy Delacruz is, in fact, the second hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams. The title of the hottest member of the Hellmouth Sunbeams has gone to <choose>Any Beam Lmao</choose>.

Career

Delacruz was surprised to discover that Igneus had been a Sunbeams captain before the Alternate Reality swap, and chose not to take on that role due to insecurities related to their lower star count compared to their predecessor. After gradually recovering some of her batting ability, xir allergic reaction in Season 9 once again decimated both their batting ability and their confidence.

During the [[season 10 election]], Delacruz was cured of his peanut allergy due to the Nut Button blessing. This was followed by Delacruz valiantly failing to steal 2nd base to prevent a loop in the final game of season 11, contributing to the championship win for the Sunbeams.

While playing a game against the Miami Dale on day 52 of Season 12, Delacruz baffled league officials by forcing teammate [[Nerd Pacheco]] to run around her while she stayed on third base in the 5th inning, resulting in Pacheco getting a run on [[Hahn Fox's]] sac bunt. Iggy was quoted saying "You have legs? Go around me," in response to being yelled at by Pacheco to run home.

In Season 14, Day 48, Delacruz was swept :elsewhere:. Ze returned [[Scattered]] after 23 days. They remained scattered until day 104, and there are reports that the extended time it took to recover was associated with their spotty memory from before blaseball.

Trivia

- Many people assume that Delacruz's iconic flaming blue head is xir adaptation, but when asked xe insists that's just how xe is.
- Delacruz's low baserunning stars are sometimes explained with the fact that ze insists on playing many games in heels.
- Delacruz has never once been spotted dressed appropriately for the weather and is constantly cold, despite his head being on fire.
- Delacruz has been known to wear a variety of blaseball teams' booty shorts (link? I don't know what I'm doing) as well as a pair reading "Hellmouth Community College." [https://www.blaseballcares.com/collections/all/type_shorts?page=1]
- Delacruz is famous as the inventor of the world's most popular fire hair dye, a variety of minerals which can create colours and effects when applied to fire. They are an integral part of her home run celebration routine.
- Delacruz considers seemingly any sequel movie to be their favorite even if and in spite of popular opinion stating that the films should have never been made in the first place.
- Delacruz is notorious for shredding any paper they can when they have access to a shredding machine. In order to avoid the loss of important documents, letters, or photos, shredding machines are now banned from the Solarium.
- Delacruz and their teammate, Zack Sanders, have become a figure skating duo since their experience on Athletico Latte in the Coffee Cup. Despite being both rivals and best friends their justification is that “them hating each other creates off the ice drama they can bring to their on the ice routines or something along those lines.” Nobody fully gets what this means, but they’re not great at ice skating.