

My Luck

I had thought about this moment for years, but I'd never expected what happened.

Since I was a child I always thought about the moment that I will start working in a job, but I never expected what will happen.

Now I'm an adult, I have finished my university career and I could start working about what I like but something happened to me.

Last month, I bought a lottery ticket with the prize were one billion euros. I thought that it will be a good idea to have fun. Yesterday, they published the results in their website. I checked the numbers and it was the same.

Now, I don't have to work in my whole life, so that means that my dream of working is not going to happen never.