Introduction for Rob Clark, Jr. – “Cybersecurity Life Hacks”

Please read exactly as follows:

Rob Clark, Jr. is a nationally recognized authority in A.I., ethics, cybersecurity, and audit with over 36 years of industry experience. He has served in leadership at M.I.T., Georgia Tech, University of Nebraska, Clark Atlanta University, and now at Howard University in Washington D.C. All this means is that for over half of his life, he's been eating lunch alone! Cuz, let's face it, nobody wants to talk with the audit and compliance guy!

He has held leadership positions as President of the International Association of College and University Auditors and President of the Institute of Internal Auditors - Atlanta Chapter. He is a member of the National Speakers Association and is a highly sought-after keynote speaker on cybersecurity, ethics, A.I., audit, and risk management with the unique ability to apply these “Geek-o-logy” principles to our businesses and our everyday lives.

He holds professional designations as a Certified Internal Auditor, Certified Compliance and Ethics Professional, Certified Business Manager, and Certified Virtual Presenter. All this really means is that he is a "Certified Nerd!"

Ladies and gentlemen, get ready to get your "Geek" on, and help me welcome, Rob Clark, Jr.!
