For the children in a really simple level the use of symbols on interactive whiteboards and on resources. They will say it makes it easier because I understand what I am learning, I understand what success looks like. I understand the keywords that I need to use in this lesson. It also just makes it visually more engaging. And that really important. I think we can overload children with lots and lots of words. If we're using symbols, we are really pinpointing the key learning that needs to stick in my brain as a child, and I think that's really powerful.
