	Reading	Read the text and answer the questions. 1 point for each correct answer. Artists use shadows to show different seasons and times of day. To show summer, artists often paint short shadows. This is because the Sun is high in the sky in summer, and when the light comes from above, it makes short shadows. In winter, the Sun is lower in the sky. The light comes from the side and makes longer shadows. Artists also paint long shadows to show the morning or the evening and short shadows to show midday. The shadows in paintings can also tell us where the Sun is in the sky. When the shadows are on the right of the objects, the Sun is on the left. When the shadows are in front, the Sun is behind. 1. Why do artists paint short shadows to show summer? 2. When is the Sun lower in the sky according to the text? 3. What can the shadows in paintings tell us about the position of the Sun?	6
