

PRESENTSALE

FOR CONGRESS

A local band played a rendition of “Do you hear the people sing?”. Without a seconds delay after the song was finished, PresentSale took the podium, He had a single page with him on the stand. “Folks, I loved that. I think we all did. That was terrific. Good job to Justin. Well, Myself and Justin go way back. He’s been a good friend of mine for a while. I have many friends, many fantastic friends. These friends are terrific. It’s true, without a doubt. But listen folks, I’m here to bring you horrific news. I’m sure you all have heard about the federal election. I’m sure you all think it’s the same stuff all over again every year. This time it is different. We have a radical socialist who wants to place more regulations on guns then there currently are on cheese,” “Listen folks, we are fighting an uphill race. Our constitution is under threat, specifically the 2nd amendment. The second amendment is something that I love about this country. It is what makes us different from any other nation on this green earth. During WW2, a Japanese admiral stated that an invasion of America is impossible because there is a gun behind every blade of grass. This is true at the moment, but will it be so in the future? Under the democratic administration we will have our guns taken away from us and placed in government mandated storage lockers unless something is done to protect our big, beautiful firearms. After all, we own 48% of the guns in the world, and that number, is huge!

When elected Congressman, I plan to promote deregulation of gun-ownership within these United States in order to ensure that everybody has access to a safe and legal way to defend themselves against any threats internal and external. I will help make gun-ownership something people can be proud of, by allowing open-carry and concealed carry in the United States in legislation that I plan to submit.

Because, unlike my opponent, I feel like I’ve got a backbone. The losers in the Democratic party are so sad folks. They don’t have any plans. No plans to solve illegal immigration, to solve leftist extremism. Nothing! Empty! Dry! It’s sad to see folks. Extremely sad. We have a major crisis, we have masses of droves coming over our southern border and heading into beautiful places such as Portland and Seattle. They ruin these places, instead of respecting our culture they throw it out the window. It’s sad folks and we keep letting these folks in here. I mean, some are good people of course. Some. Most of them are just sad losers.

During the debate, my opponent appeared to be a very large supporter of the concept of “amnesty” and forgiving immigrants for committing crimes. You see, if I go to any foreign nation and I commit a crime there as an immigrant I’m going to be deported. Common sense right? My opponent hates this common sense solution. She claims that there is some sort of "Second class citizen" system in place. There isn't. Immigrants who commit crimes don't deserve to stay in the country. They committed a crime, they are criminals, criminals get deported. It is as simple as that.

The choice in this election is clear, we can either pick the Democrats, who are more worried about winning the illegal immigrants vote, or the G.O.P., who are more worried about earning yours.. Pick the right one this election.

But listen here folks, I've kept you for long enough. Enjoy the rest of your night and remember, Vote PresentSale."

The crowd went wild, yelling, chanting, sounding like a frat house on a Saturday night in college, except without the beer. PresentSale stepped off of the stage, and went to hold a baby in his hands, at the request of the mother.

"Look at this baby, isn't he the greatest? This is what America is all about, folks!"

The applause deepened, almost like the roar of a lion. It was like a school pep rally, except instead of a sports game, it was an election. He was going to win, and he'd do whatever he could within the law to do so.
