Reality Television

Reality TV is one of the most popular types of programme on television. These programmes have got many unusual competitions, but the participants are usually ordinary men and women. Why do they participate? Well, in most of these reality programmes, people win money. If a participant thinks he can win, he will often do many strange and even dangerous things, for example, live in the jungle for months, eat a plate of live insects or swim in freezing water.

Why is reality TV so popular with viewers? According to sociologists, we watch these programmes because we like seeing people in difficult situations. Reality TV is also popular because many viewers like watching people fight. Quite often, when the presenter introduces the participants, they are polite and friendly. But when they begin to compete, they suddenly become aggressive. Viewers get excited and enjoy watching the fights. From week to week, millions of viewers wonder, what will the next great challenge be and how will the participants react?

1. Reality TV programmes have got many viewers.   TRUE
2. People won't do strange things to win money.   FALSE

3. Viewers like watching polite, friendly people.  FALSE
4. When people compete, they often become angry.  TRUE

Mr Chef:	Welcome to Mr Chef! – the best cooking programme on TV. Hello, everyone! This week we've got three teenage guests with us. I'd like to welcome our first guest, Dan Callahan. Welcome, Dan. Tell us about yourself.
Dan:	Well, I'm 14 and I'm from Sheffield.
Mr Chef:	And what are you going to bake for us today, Dan?
Dan:	My favourite chocolate cake.
Mr Chef:	Do you make this cake often?
Dan:	No, this is my first time. I'm going to use my mum's recipe.
Mr Chef:	OK, Dan, so let's get started! I'll help you. First of all, turn on the oven to 180 degrees. Now, what do we need for the cake?
Dan:	Er ... three eggs, one cup of sugar, two cups of flour, one cup of oil and two chocolate bars.
Mr Chef:	OK, now what do we do?
Dan:	Mix the sugar and oil, then add the flour. Now break the three eggs ...
Mr Chef:	OK, Dan, put the eggs in here. Good, now slowly add the chocolate.
Dan:	Like this? Oops!
Mr Chef:	Be careful, Dan. If you don't work carefully, the cake won't come out right.
Dan:	OK.
Mr Chef:	That's it, Dan. Now put the mixture in this pan and into the oven for 45 minutes. Well, Dan, we can't wait to taste your chocolate cake. Thanks for joining us. And now, please welcome our second guest, Sally Dawson from London
