4. Codes of Behaviour

A code of behaviour sets out an organisation's expectation of its employees, volunteers and supporters. These codes can be developed to cover a variety of roles including coaches, competitors, officials, parents and supporters and administrators. They will also reinforce the good practice protocols.

Staff, coaches, volunteers are required to report any accident, incident of abuse, or cause for concern which arises in the course of their work with children.

Measures will be taken to ensure a child's safety by minimising or eliminating factors that could lead to injury, including such things as bullying, all forms of abuse, extreme weather, and unsafe equipment and/or facilities.

Staff should not forward any personal details of the child or family to a third party, except when requested by the Police or social services.

If staff, coaches or volunteers feel that they may be at risk from becoming the subject of unwarranted allegations in connection with a child, they should alert the person in charge or management committee immediately.

Complaint and internal discipline procedures for breaches of the code procedures will also be widely distributed and promoted.

5. Dealing with allegations, responding to concerns

In accordance with members' responsibility to act on any serious concerns, the following should be brought to the attention of the Management committee or person in charge of the event.

- Any disclosure by a child that abuse or harm is occurring.
- Any suspicions or concerns about a child being subject to abuse.

- Initial concerns should be discussed with the management committee or person in charge of the event.
- consider the allegation and where there is legitimate concern provide a written notice to the individual(s) involved.
