Abstract

Write the abstract in English here. The abstract should be in times new roman, font size 12. It must include: the research problem, objectives, methods, results, and conclusions. The abstract should be written as a single paragraph, without references, abbreviations, acronyms, or footnotes. It should not be written in the form of mathematical formulas, questions, or assumptions, and must not be copied directly from the manuscript text. The maximum length of the abstract is 250 words.

Keywords: keyword one; keyword two; keyword three; etc. (minimum 3, maximum 5 keywords)

Introduction

The introduction must describe the fundamental issues or urgency that underlie the study/research. It should be written in times new roman, font size 12, single spacing, without footnotes. References (literature or relevant research results) must be cited using the reference number in the text, adjusted to the Reference List. Example: Strasburger et al. stated that adolescents aged 8–18 years spend an average of 7 hours per day accessing media (Strasburger et al., 2010). The final part of the introduction must clearly state the research objectives.

Method

This section should explain the type of research, location and time, population and sample, sampling techniques, data collection methods, data analysis, and data presentation.

Results and Discussion

The results should describe the characteristics of the research subjects. The results should not be raw data, but data that has been processed/analyzed using the established methods. The section may include statements, tables, figures, diagrams, charts, sketches, etc. Text should use times new roman, font size 12, single spacing, without footnotes. The discussion must explain the reasoning behind the results (including supporting or contrasting findings from other studies). It should compare the research findings with existing concepts/theories in the literature review. The same sentences from the results section should not be repeated, nor should tables and figures be read aloud. Instead, results can be grouped and interpreted in relation to theories and prior studies.

Conclusion

The conclusion must summarize the findings and discussion in relation to the research objectives. Suggestions should be based on the findings and may refer to practical actions, new theoretical development, and/or further research. The conclusion is not a summary of results referring to certain theories, but rather the outcome of the analysis and correlation tests discussed.

References

The references should be written in cambria, font size 11, single spacing. The list of references must include sources cited in the manuscript. References should follow the American Psychological Association (APA) Style. At least 80% of references should be primary sources (journals, research reports, conference papers) and 20% secondary sources (books, theses, dissertations, internet sources). To ensure consistency in referencing, it is recommended to use a reference manager such as Mendeley.
