

How to be a Good Son/Daughter

T	Title - What you will be explaining
I	Introduction - Tell your audience what the topic is about and what is to be explained.
I	Information - Explain the elements or steps in a logical sequence
C	Conclusion - Final summarising statement, an evaluation or comment about what you have explained.

Title	How to be a Good Son/Daughter
Introduction	Are you a good son or daughter? Some kids aren't sure. In order to be a good son or daughter you need to be sure to listen, help out and be thankful.
Information 1st idea	Listen. One thing parents hate is when their kid doesn't listen to them, and that doesn't just mean hearing. Listening is when you look at your parents when they talk and actually process what they're saying. Then once you've processed what they've said, actually go and do it.
Information 2nd idea	Help Out Parents love it when they're kids are helpful around the house. Especially when you do it without being asked. Try little things, like washing the dishes or even just bringing in the groceries and it'll make things a lot easier for your parents. Helping around truly has its advantages.
Information 3rd idea	Be Thankful Your parents do a lot for you. They feed you, clothe you, put a roof over your heads. That's just a tiny portion of how much love your parents put into you. So say thank you and show it through your actions. Maybe even give your parents a massage when they come home from work, or give them breakfast in bed in the morning. Your parents want to feel loved and appreciated too.
Conclusion	So now that you've read my story about "Role Models" are you strong, powerful and motivational enough to be a good role model? Everyone has the strength to be a role model. So use your strength and become a better role model than you already are!

Instructions:

1. Highlight the three information paragraphs using the SEE model
 - a. Highlight the Statements Blue
 - b. Highlight the Explanations Green
 - c. Highlight the Examples Pink
2. Click here to open the final copy document
 - a. Copy and past each section of the rough draft onto the final copy document
 - b. Highlight the descriptive words for each paragraph Yellow.