University of Arizona College of Agriculture Life and Environmental Sciences
Pima Community College Transfer Pathway

The B.S. in Personal and Family Financial Planning gives you the finance and wealth-building skills you need to secure a rewarding career. Through our core financial planning classes and electives, you'll gain in-demand tools and insights to ensure that you and your clients have a profitable future -- from buying a home to starting a business, to preparing for retirement. Upon graduating from this program, you will meet the requirements to take the Certified Financial Planning licensing exam. .

Pima Community College students looking to transfer into the U of A's Personal and Family Financial Planning program should use the following page as a recommended outline of courses. This information is provided by the AZTransfer course equivalency guide and is subject to change. Consult with your transfer admissions counselor and academic advisor to review specific courses and transfer pathways. After your official transcript is processed by the U of A, your coursework will be evaluated in preadmission for completion and grades (must receive C or higher).
