

Poker Players

Two couples were playing poker one evening. Jim accidentally dropped some cards on the floor.

When he bent down under the table to pick them up, he noticed Lee's wife, Sue, wasn't wearing any underwear under her dress!

Shocked by this, Jim upon trying to sit back up again, hit his head on the table and emerged red-faced.

Later, Jim went to the kitchen to get some refreshments.

Lee's wife followed and asked, 'Did you see anything that you like under there?'

Surprised by her boldness, Jim admitted that, well indeed he did.

She said, 'Well, you can have it but it will cost you 200.'

After taking a minute or two to assess the financial and moral costs of this offer, Jim confirmed that he was interested.

Sue told him that since her husband Lee played golf Friday afternoons and Jim didn't, Jim should be at her house around 2 PM. Friday afternoon.

When Friday rolled around, Jim showed up at Lee's house at 2PM. sharp and after paying Sue the agreed sum of 200 - they went to the bedroom, and closed their transaction, as agreed. Jim quickly dressed and left.

As usual, Lee came home from golf at 6pm. And upon arriving, asked his wife: 'Did Jim come by the house this afternoon?'

With a lump in her throat Sue answered, 'Why yes, he did stop by for a few minutes this afternoon.'

Her heart nearly skipped a beat when her husband curtly asked, 'And did he give you 200?'

Sue, using her best poker face, replied, 'Well, yes, in fact he did give me 200.'

Lee, with a satisfied look on his face, surprised his wife by saying, 'He came by the golf club this morning and borrowed 200 from me.

He promised he'd stop by our house this afternoon on his way home and pay me back.'

Now THAT, my friends, is a poker player.