CoMPHI Journal: Community Medicine and Public Health of Indonesia Journal
Vol. X, No. X, xxxx xxxx, hlm. xx-xx

e-ISSN 2722-8169
p-ISSN 2723-097X

Title (Capital first letter, not more than 12 words, using arial 12 and center with single space, represents the article content)

Author's full name without degree1, co-author's full name without degree2, co-author's full name without degree3 (using garamond 11, bold with single space)

[1,] Authors' identity should be written completely by giving name, institution and email address for correspondence author

Article History:
Received: xxxx-xx-xx
Revised: xxxx-xx-xx
Accepted: xxxx-xx-xx
Publish: xxxx-xx-xx

Key words:
Xxxx, xxxx, xxxxx,

Author correspondence:
Correspondence of the author:
Name: Author Correspondance Agency: ……
Address: …….

ABSTRACT

Abstract should be written briefly and factually. Abstract contains of the clear elaboration of research purpose, result and conclusion. Abstract should be written separately from the article. Reference should not be written in abstract, but if it is indispensable, authors' name and publication year should be cited. Non standard abbreviation should be avoided, but if it is indispensable, the full name should be specified in its initial mention. The word length is not more than 200 words, written in English

Introduction

The introduction contains the purpose of article/research that is formulated and presented by an adequate background. The introduction must cover the research urgency, supporting facts from previous studies, gap analysis, research status, research novelty, and research objective. The gap analysis means the gap found within the prior research, while the research status is the position towards previous studies whether it corrects, debates, or supports. The references must be taken from journals published not later than 10 years from the article submission..

Methodology

Sub title

Method used should be accompanied by references, relevant modification should be explained. Procedure and data analysis techniques should be emphasized to literature review article.The research stages should be clearly state.

Results and Discussion

Result

The results and discussion should be presented in the same part, clearly and briefly. The discussion part should contain the benefit of research result, not repeat result part. The research results could be supplemented with tables, figures, or graphs (separate writing terms) to clarify the discussion. Avoid presenting similar data in a separate table. The

e-ISSN 2722-8169
p-ISSN 2723-097X

analysis should answer the gap stated. The qualitative data, e.g. interview results, is discussed in paragraphs. The references contained in the introduction should not be re-written in the discussion. A comparison to the previous studies should be presenteAll figures, tables, or informative illustrationsare prepared as image file.

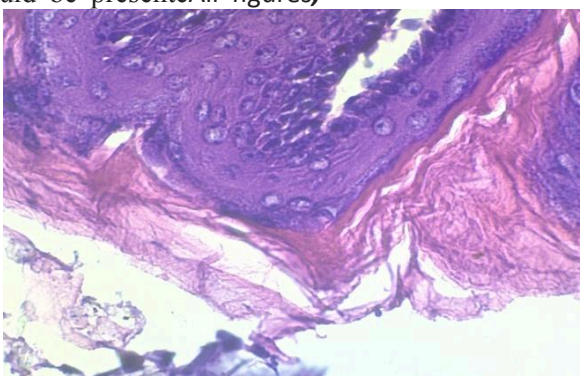

Figure 1. Legend should be written in Garamond 11 and place below the figure directly.

Table 1. Legend should be written in Garamond 11 with single space and place above the table content. Apply the line only for top, inside horizontal and bottom border.

No	XXXXX	YYYYY	YYYYY
1	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
2	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
3	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
4	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
5	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
6	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY
7	XXXXX	YYYY	YYYY

Conclusion

The research conclusion is presented briefly, narrative and conceptual which describes the research findings and its impacts. Please avoid using bullets..

Acknowledgment

An acknowledgment is a crucial section in a published work, such as a thesis or academic article, where the author formally expresses gratitude to all the individuals, groups, and organizations that provided assistance and support for the project. Unlike co-authors, those mentioned in the acknowledgments didn't directly contribute to the intellectual substance of the work but were essential to its completion. This can include supervisors and advisors who offered guidance, colleagues who provided feedback, research participants who contributed data, funding bodies that supplied financial resources, and even family and friends whose moral support was invaluable. Essentially, it's a dedicated space to give credit where credit is due and to show appreciation for the collaborative and personal network that made the work possible.

e-ISSN 2722-8169
p-ISSN 2723-097X

References

The article should cite the last name and year of the reference. If citing from some authors, it should be ordered based on the most recent reference. If citing from the article written by two authors, then all authors' name should be cited. Meanwhile, if citing from the article written by three or more authors, then it is cited by writing first author's name followed by et al. The references are written in Vancuver style. The listed references must be cited in the body of the article and vice versa. Unpublished referencesare not suggested to be cited in the article. This journal requires 80% of the references cited from national and international journals.