Hi Payton, so happy to see you try something new! I think the pot holder is a wonderful first project to focus on, if you wanted to advance it afterwards you could make a bowl cozy for when you have soup in a hot bowl! I did bead work for one of my outdoor ed assignments and my fingers tensed up so much so i have much respect for you and your crochet journey since I would probably quit after one project lol. Can't wait to check in and see the progress!!

Hi Peyton! I love you choice for this project. I will definitely follow along to see the creations you end up with. I definitely recommend looking at Pinterest and Tiktok. There's tons of useful content on there and really good ideas. I've seen lots of really cool and unique things on there like crocheted dresses, stuffed animals, butterfly shirts, etc.

Hi Mackenzie!

This is absolutely insane!! All of your knots look amazing and you are inspiring me to learn how to do this. The spiral knot is definitely my favourite one you did this week. Good luck with your future knots, I can't wait to see how they turn out!

Hi Mackenzie!

This is suer cool. I didn't know how many different types of knots there were for macrame. Also I totally get what you mean about it being relaxing and repetitive in a good way. I'm excited to see what you end up making in the end!

Hi Kyler,

Your summer rolls look so good! I want to try this now LOL. It looks a lot easier than I previously thought.

I basically go to tiktok for ALL of my recipes. I totally see how it is superior to written recipes. I agree that it's helpful to be able to see the technique of the person in the video. I'm excited to see what other recipes you do in the future.

DIGITAL LEARNING PROJECT

EDTC 300

LEARNING PROJECT

Hi Sky-Anne!

For being such a busy lady, I love how you plan to incorporate a learning project you are able to fit into your busy life and also benefits your overall health and well being. I like how you have planned out your next six weeks with some great goals to achieve. I am excited to follow along with you and your journey. Hey, maybe it will motivate me to be or active too!

I like the topic you chose for your learning project! I considered choosing this topic myself, but I had not idea how I was going to break it down. You did a really good job breaking your weeks down, I'm excited to see which resources you use and how it goes for you.

the videos don't need to be too long. I'm going to make some more things to go. The videos are fast paced, animated (and engaging), and quickly identify what he'll be reviewing and how. Also, he mentioned in an earlier video that he Does Not have an education in design and animation. Being self taught, he brings an awareness of the questions and frustrations he had as a learner and incorporates that experience into his approach to teaching.

My next step is take what I've learned, get myself set up with the software I'm going to start out with...and start learning!

ONE THOUGHT ON "CREATING DIGITAL IMAGES: A LEARNING PROJECT"

What a cool idea! I am also interested in digital design, but I totally relate to not really knowing much about how to actually do it. I like how you broke everything down and started with the basics. The videos you added seem super helpful. I can't wait to see what you produce in the coming weeks! I'll definitely stay tuned.

Hi Muhammad,

Nice choice in learning project! I considered this exact topic as well. Duolingo is a great resource. My friend recommends the app "Drops" for learning languages. She said its the best language learning app she has tried. Just a suggestion in case you need another resource! I haven't tried it myself, though.

I am looking forward to seeing your progress in learning Spanish. I will definitely keep up with you blogs, as I'm really intrigued to see how far you can go in learning Spanish through solely online resources.
