Proposal for a new national anthem:

Title: Nation of a Proud Patriotic People abbrev. Nation of PPP, which also happens to be the bleeping sound for censorship in Japanese

♪Oh, Japan, Japan
How we do love thee.
and oh how we embrace the symbols of thee!

♪We could never imagine flinching at the sight of the flag of the rising sun in our neighbour's yard!

♪Nor could we ever imagine feeling, if not completely disgusted, at least slightly uncomfortable at the sound of "the Imperial Reign."

♪We most certainly understand the significance of the Emperor, and the reason of his existence, by all means.

♪And we solemnly swear that we are singing this song out of free will,
and not being forced to do so by the Board of Education!

♪Such proud patriotic people are we,
We the Japanese! And it isn't ironic at all that we had to chuck the old anthem away!