Abstract (10pt, Italic,Bold).

Abstract should contain between 200 and 250 words. The font used is Cambria, 10 pt, with single spacing. The abstract consists of the following components: First, the introduction section provides a general context and briefly explains the significance of the research. Second, the research purpose must be clearly stated, indicating the main direction and focus. Third, the abstract should include a concise description of the methods used in the research. Subsequently, the abstract must present the results and discussion, focusing on key findings that directly address the research objectives. Finally, the conclusion should offer an interpretation of the results obtained, accompanied by practical suggestions where necessary.

Keywords: Keywords consist of 3–5 words.

1. INTRODUCTION (Cambria 12pt, Bold, Capital)

The introduction presents the background of the problem, from a general to a specific context of the research focus. This paragraph should highlight the rationale for the research, including any empirical facts or research gaps identified. The research objectives should then be explicitly explained, with research questions or hypotheses, if any, outlined. The introduction cites relevant previous research to clarify the new research's contribution to science. The introduction concludes with a transitional sentence that leads into the methods section. The total word count for the introduction is 700-1000 words. Mendeley is mandatory for citations. The font used is Cambria 12pt, 1.15 spacing.

2. METHOD (Cambria 12pt, Bold, Capital)

In this section, the Author should explain in detail the research design, the location and time, the population or sample, the data collection techniques, and the data analysis techniques. If using a qualitative approach, it is important to explain data validation techniques such as data triangulation. The font used is Cambria 12pt, 1.15 spacing.

3. RESULT AND DISCUSSION (Cambria 12pt, Bold, Capital)

In this section, the Author must present the research results objectively and comprehensively. Results can be presented in narrative form, tables, graphs, or figures, with each table/figure numbered and clearly titled. After the results are presented, a discussion follows, analysing them within the context of theory and previous research. The font used is Cambria 12pt, 1.15 spacing.

4. CONCLUSION (Cambria 12pt, Bold, Capital)

The conclusion is a concise response to the research findings. It focuses solely on the main findings without repeating the numerical data from the results. The conclusion should state the most important findings, their theoretical or practical implications, and suggestions for further research. The font used is Cambria 12pt, 1.15 spacing.

5. REFERENCE (Cambria 12pt, Bold, Capital)

The bibliography must include all references cited in the text of the article. Use the American Psychological Association (APA 7th edition citation style, and Mendeley is mandatory. A minimum of 75% of primary sources should come from scientific journal publications, and 75% from literature published in the last 10 years. The font used is Cambria 12pt, single-spaced.
