This entire project was CAD. I learned to cut paths on shapes in order to add details, which were in this case lines that signified movement. I also learned more ways to align shapes so that I don't just use the "selection area" option for alignment. I also learned to use the polygon tool, which will be somewhat useful in the future.