4. Decorations Proposal - Shane S.

Last weekend I put up some decorations in honor of black history month. These decorations were taken down yesterday, upon the suggestion of NH members claiming they were in violation of tradition 10. After speaking to my sponsor and upon further reflection I can see where some of the words in the poster would raise concern. Other decorations without this wording were also taken down. I am bringing forward a discussion and a proposal this evening to address the situation.

The holidays listed on the annual position description are:

- Thanksgiving
- Christmas
- New Year's
- Valentines
- Easter
- Halloween

Discussion:

Is the decorations chair limited to these holidays or are we open to acknowledging black history month and pride month?

Proposal:

Expand the list of annual holidays to include decorating for black history and pride month.

Randy T seconded the motion.

Stephan thanks Shane for his work and shared that it was difficult to see the items come down.

Randy said not all of the things we celebrate are actually "holidays", for instance Valentines day. He says celebratory things are great, but things that are more political or

River says being more intentional about inclusion in representation in decorations is great for uplifting the members of the committee.

Group Conscience Draft Minutes– February 5, 2024

	Jean points out that our flags are “outside issues”. We have the ability to bring people in and let them know they are welcome. If we apply everything to “no outside issues” we will have the steps and the traditions on the wall and nothing else. Jodi said she thinks this is not in keeping with Tradition 10. The current holiday list is pretty secular and very common. Jodi says the other events are what everyone else is doing. Jen says we could consider having the black history month flag up all the time which would avoid the “protest” topic. Evan seconds what Jen said, and that it is not promoting but supporting. Vicki reminds us that unity is very important, and that there are other topic we could decorate for. Also that alcoholism makes us look for things to focus on the differences. Michael reminds us that flexibility is important too. Lots of comments were made in the chat as well Randy clarified that the proposal was to add 2 items to the list of “holidays” in the decorations chair position description. Randy called the vote The motion passed This is a procedure change so we will post it for a month, and do a final vote next month. Brian asked for the March vote to be a substantial unanimity vote. Robin clarified that it needs to be requested at the vote next month.
