

GUILLAUME DAMOND'S TIES

AVAILABILITY	NAME	ROLE	DESCRIPTION
Taken ▾	Wryneia Meio J. Olivarez Wonyoung	Ride or Die Sister Soulmate, Angel	GD met Meio as he delved deeper into the pit of his past life as a Naisho . The maiden's presence remained amid his confusion and blurred memories. He vowed himself to treat Meio like a sister she could run to—even in the darkest times—despite the absence of being biologically related.
Taken ▾	Terrence Elio Deogracia Jay	Flight Instructor Best Friend	Unexpected collisions can sometimes spark the strongest connections. GD accidentally bumped into Terrence at the airport, the very pilot in charge of his flight. Curiosity got the better of him, and he bombarded the aviator with questions about work life in the cockpit—to his surprise, Terrence took GD under his wing, teaching him the world of aviation during his free time.
Taken ▾	Ryzn Yves Sullivan Sunghoon	Cinematographer	Out of nowhere, Ryzn cast GD to be part of his film. The elder saw potential in his acting skills, making him a perfect candidate for the project he was working on. GD made his acting debut in Ryzn's heartbreaking short film for Valentine's Day. Off camera, the two were often spotted bickering face to face.
Taken ▾	Astra Lou Sullivan Rei	Taping Friend	Ryzn's little sister, Byeol, was chosen to be GD's partner in the film Ryzn was working on for Valentine's Day. There was a lingering awkwardness between them during their first meeting, yet it always disappeared whenever the cameras were rolling. GD and Byeol grew closer as they spent time rehearsing their lines together, sharing their first experience acting in a film.

Taken ▾	Francisca Isaías Montalva Minju	Aunt	After finally meeting his biological family, GD discovered that his dad had a little sister. Francisca, whom he calls Atetita , was very fond of him—showering GD with Jollibee treats, and even paying for his piano lessons, much to his dismay, since they're stealing his leisure time.
Taken ▾	Kelsey Natisha Gomez-del Fierro Yunjin	His Mom	Having an unknown biological mother and an evil adoptive mother prettily summed up just how unfortunate GD was ... all he wanted was to know what it felt like to have a mother—a kind one, at that. That was, until Natisha suddenly started helping him with his school assignments and even willingly attended his award ceremonies whenever GD needed someone to place the medal he had worked for around his neck. Natisha's constant presence made him long for a mother's affection , leading him to cherish her as his foster mom.
Taken ▾	Jordanne Reinier Altieri Haerin	Language Tutor Italian Relative	After reuniting with the Alessi family, the first thing they did was attend a typical family reunion. There, he met some of his relatives from Italy—Jordanne among them. As someone who had just discovered he was half Italian, he was utterly flabbergasted when she spoke to him in Italian . Seizing the moment, she gave him a challenge:

			whenever GD successfully pulled off an Italian phrase, she'd reward him with money. Their playful saga continued whenever they met, earning him both money and being fluent in Italian.
Taken ▾	Eldoree Liliosa C. Borromeo Yujin	JHS Schoolmate (DSS) Exchange Student	During his middle school years in Korea, GD once met an exchange student named Lilo. His band was in a tight situation—they desperately needed a guitarist. If only he could play an instrument, he could have filled the spot himself. Unfortunately, he could only serve as their vocalist for the school festival contest. Then, out of the corner of his eye, he saw Lilo peeking from the basement. A spark of hope sparked in his eyes as he asked her if she could play guitar—and just like that, victory was theirs.
Taken ▾	Francesca Adriana Ysobel Vladislav Ningning	Guitar Tutor Elder Sister (VLDS)	GD's excitement over watching lah's band performances sparked a desire to learn an instrument—so he ended up borrowing his brother's guitar and giving it a try. He even approached lah to ask if she could help him learn, and she gladly welcomed the chance to help her little brother. Unsure at first, but eager to learn—every ache in his fingers became small wins, creating beautiful melodies and rhythms as his fingers brushed against the cold strings of the guitar.
Taken ▾	Wēi Zhù Uy-Fiorenzi Ni-ki	Text Scammer Fake Angkas Driver	Who in their right mind would message GD at an ungodly hour, claiming to be an Angkas driver? Definitely Wēi. Amused, GD replied to the strange text, saying he had already booked a ride at that time. What started as a risky dare, scamming a complete stranger with some random text, somehow blossomed into an unexpected friendship. Despite being a “fake” driver, Wēi loved tagging along on GD's travel shenanigans.

Taken ▾	Valerian Dane Lockhart Chan	Prank Victim	During GD and his blockmates' party night at the bar, they played truth or dare. He dared to act drunk in front of that night's DJ, Dan. Mischief practically oozed from him, and he had no trouble pulling off the silly prank. Staggering toward the DJ in his feigned drunken state, he worried Dan enough that he even stopped the music mid-song. That was GD's perfect cue to reveal it was just a prank. For Dan, it was a taste of his own medicine—after all, he loved pulling pranks just as much as GD did.
Taken ▾	Jairou Blaise A. Valmadrid Wonwoo	Adoptive Father	After finally escaping the tight grasp of his evil adoptive mother, Ingrid Vladislav, GD got his second shot at family—this time, a much gentler one. Jairou, a culinary wizard, adopted him during his elementary years and gave him the fatherly affection he had longed for. His passion for food was contagious, and he dreamed of one day running a restaurant like his father. With that goal in mind, he started studying hard, determined to become a chef in the future—in hopes of repaying the support Jairou had given him, even after he found his biological family.
Taken ▾	Rosalie Sylviana C. Morozov	Stranger in his	Nightmares were nothing for Giselle	Nightmare	GD—not until he dreamt of a stranger in a dangerous situation . He shrugged it off, thinking it was just nonsense. During one of his music gigs, a maiden caught his eye. She looked so familiar that he immediately remembered his nightmare. Afraid it might come true, he befriended Rosalie, hoping to protect her whenever danger arose.

Taken ▾	Rafael Luis Santiago Heeseung	Piano Tutor	Playing the piano was not on his bingo card —guitar was enough for GD. His aunt, Francisca, suddenly wanted him to learn the piano, which he didn't like, so he ended up ditching all his lessons. Everything changed when Rafael became his tutor. Despite GD's rebellious attempts to skip sessions, Rafael never gave up on him. For the first time, GD didn't feel trapped in a never-ending loop of boredom; instead, Rafael's lessons felt magical .
Taken ▾	Lily Juliana Figueroa Winter	Manager	Among GD's managers at ELLIPSIS, Jules was his personal lifeline. Whenever chaotic situations arose, Jules was always there to the rescue! She constantly reminded him of his countless schedules whenever he forgot them—if his DND mode had an exception, it was definitely for her. Whenever GD vanished from sight, everyone knew exactly who to call: Jules. The manager knows best, indeed.
Taken ▾	Kenya Abeno Heeseung	Human Test Subject	Upon uncovering his life as a Naisho, his abilities returned—including the power to control minds . GD tried summoning his dog with this ability, and to his relief, he succeeded. The thought of trying it on a person, however, filled him with fear. Yet Kenya, who found comfort in him and fully trusted GD, decided to volunteer—placing their fate in his hands.

Available ▾	Full Name Face Claim	Guy Crush	All along, GD had believed he could only be attracted to girls. As his high school life began, a pretty boy next door caught his eye, sending a strange flutter through his heart. In that moment, GD came to understand something profound about himself—he's bisexual .
Taken ▾	Noella Nichelle Saint-Claire Altieri Ning Yizhuo	Idol	Recently, GD became very fond of Noella—a model-actress—not only because of their talent but also because of their personality. She would definitely pass as an angel in disguise. He started to become a fanboy—collecting her merch, watching her shows, even using her photos as his lockscreen, and eagerly attending her fan meetings. All his hard work in fanboying made Noella notice him, ending up being friends in secret.
Available ▾	Full Name Face Claim	Online Friend	Out of frustration, GD did something reckless. By “reckless,” he meant sharing all of his problems with a stranger he met online. As strange as it might seem, he found himself slowly feeling at ease with this person, despite never having met or truly known each other.
