*When a religious holiday falls over a weekend, all students are given a reprieve from homework over that weekend and will not have any assessments given or collected on the following Monday.

When a holiday falls on the days immediately before/after a weekend, students are given only 1 night's worth of homework over the "long" weekend and will not have any assessments given or collected when they return to school. If a religious holiday falls during the school week, no homework is given and no assessments may be given or collected on the first day of return.
