Desert

I see desolate desert hills
Risen from rising sandy vale
Cracks and crevices concealing nothing
But barren rock and sparse shrub
The dry expanse is empty and clean
And the sky is open and breathable

—David C. Drake