I want to address this situation as it's been some time from it, and it's best to closure for the rest of what seems like a year, since the confrontation.

Admitting too to the harmful actions I've done during those times. They do not deserve to keep on hurting.

I'm going to go from each of the details or statements that are in the document and will try to state all of the actions as best as I can.

The apologies that I gave before the time of the confrontation were given throughout the time they were ready to confront me, but were not fully heartfelt, so I'll go from what I'm able to.

I don't want them to think I'm simply doing this for the cause of the document being out, as I stated before, I want to make sure closure happens and I do what they've said.

I'm not happy with these actions committed, they've hurt them, they STILL happened, and grossed me out to a lot of extents.

Even so, I'm being fully honest here.

I can't dismiss everything as my old account is now deleted, so there isn't anything I can say back, which is why I'm going through with what I did and acknowledging my actions.

Keep in mind, that I'm using [[these]] to note that I'm writing my apology to each one.
I'm not trying to make it seem heartless // non-sincere // careless and so on.
I'm writing it with as much acknowledgment and care.
I also will be going by their respective names and anonymous names out of respect as well.

Starting from 2020 - 2021:

Nova:

Me and Nova met around late 2020 // early 2021 through Roblox and Discord, as I started a friend group back then with a group chat.

Later on, I met him and started from there, I was dating someone else at this time, but as he has stated here being extremely desperate, I broke up with my previous partner to start dating him.

I'll be going from the terms from what I kept reading:

Using the term "bottom" most of the time whenever I would see something as mainly short height or some sort of it, it's difficult to grasp what I was thinking at the time but I'll elaborate.

I was very immature with these terms and didn't manage to apply any self-control which had led to a lot of disaster within my actions.

Back then when I looked as if none of these were held as if I thought I was saying something that'd get me into trouble, I can see where I went wrong with this.

The habit of emotionally abusing and being manipulative mostly derived from bursts of anger, I do confirm these majorly happened in VCs as we usually hung out in voice calls always.

Pushing forward some needed words that I've read:

I did suicide bait most of the people I dated and mainly made things about myself, these were some of the harmful habits I've had, which continued to spiral down into a whole snowstorm of it.

The moment where I got angry towards him for being in the hospital was by far one of the worst points we've had during this relationship.
From the screenshots, I've been thinking about how different this was being said to him since it's from 2021, that doesn't excuse my action, however.
I wasn't fully knowledgeable about LGBTQ-related content or its members, so I was going off the results that mostly were negative and I never looked into it until later months/years. Hence why I said slurs, called names, and gave faces to it at the time.
I NEVER had a filter during these times, I know I SHOULD've added one.
These bursts of anger seemed to explode in heavy harmful ways, whether it be through me claiming I'd hurt myself or manipulating him to do so, calling him really bad names, it's something that kept going on with later people.

Once we broke up, it was something I thought I could reflect on but I didn't give myself the time properly to heal from it.
And this kept going too.

I never listened.

Acting depressed was not what I wanted to go by, I felt a bit iffy about still hanging out with him since we were no longer dating. Now that I can see, what I did was VERY petty.

After that, it hasn't been going well within both of us which has led to a lot of conflicts.

As for you Nova,

I know the apology wasn't as great back then during that moment, but I want to take the time now to tell you I was and still am sorry.

Mainly because you didn't deserve all the actions I made you go through, each moment of anger, yelling, and how I constantly kept dragging you back by constantly saying the same thing that you feared over and over again.

I do understand what you've worked on to put your side in this, for me to get off the internet and so, I won't dismiss this.
The way I acted in our friend groups has been a total, total mess.
And as of the current time I write this, I've been handling matters more than I used to very differently.
This won't be enough, but it's an apology I want you to have. I mean it.
Pushing you away, making past friends distance themselves from you, all of the petty movements I've done towards you.
I really needed to come forward to you to apologize, but ever since, I wasn't fully able to.

After this whole time that it's been on my mind and thinking about it, I wasn't the best nor the GREATEST to you.

Please know that I've never really forgotten how I treated you.
But now that this is happening, I'm clearing it to you that I am sorry.

I don't want you to forgive me. Nor do I expect you to, you're still hurt.
I've been acknowledging how you felt, so I will continue.
But this part is meant for you.

Xeno:

Xeno is one of the friends I've met during my time with Nova and Vapor.

He was one of the very first few people to added to the friend group I made, FNF Asylum. Where I met most people and Nova.

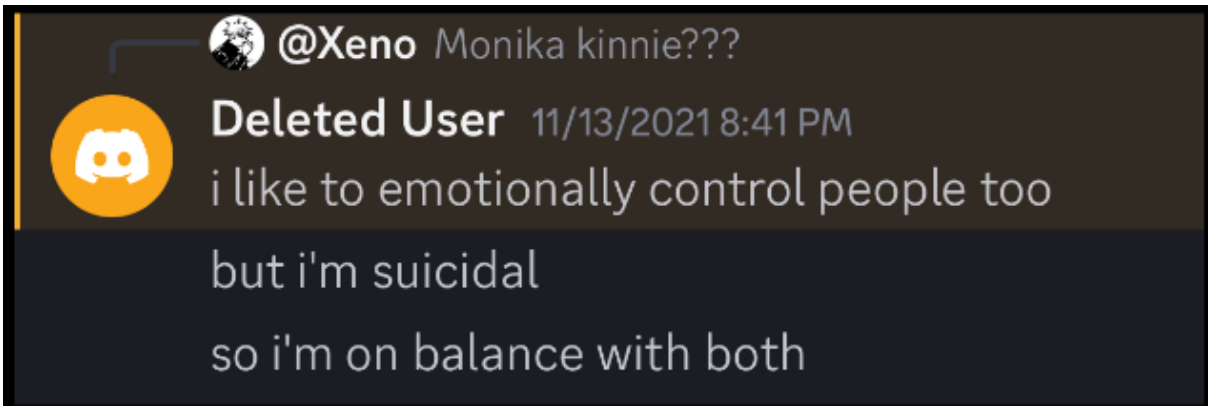

There's a little bit of history between us, what was an average interaction between us was NOT healthy.
These would be:
Fighting
Yelling at each other
Other petty moves towards each other.

"Call of Cum" was more of a server that was mainly between us, Nova, Vapor, Xeno and Demo.
(I will not be speaking of this name. It's already pretty clear what Demo did, as of the start of the document.)

And that's where most of the hangouts happened.
I went off by slurs since I was STILL off the filter there.

On some things that eventually kept going by there, has been seen as weird. And I'm sorry on that.

For context, if I can remember well on this screenshot:

We were talking about DDLC kins. If I can say again, NO idea what the hell I was thinking on writing it like THIS.

I was differentiating from either picking Sayori or Monika, but I misunderstood the way the question was asked.

On faking dementia which I'm aware is a very serious severe disease, and I apologize for how much disrespectful it's shown.
I want to admit the very stupid reason why I started doing this back then.
This mod at the time.

(Still not dismissing the fact how cringe-worthy this is seen as, or stupid.)
I mainly did it out of need for attention, NOT the way I could've used to get it but I understand why this was very bad coming from me.

I started so many fights with him, to the point where it hurt others. Especially him.

We never really managed to fix things altogether but we had our moments where we respected each other.

I was grateful when we were friends still back in 2023, but I realized then that the damage was already done.

Xeno, being honest in the way I handled things:

Addressing how much of an asshole I've been toward you and lying about suffering from dementia at the time, I'm sorry.
Throughout my actions that you saw in there and with the others, I agree that I was being insensitive.

And much more harmful to those who struggle with it.
I can't excuse myself out of it.

Always dismissing your genuine problems just to make it about me, was very heartless.
I'm sure you don't like me still.

I was aware that when that confrontation happened, I did say I felt betrayed but you did it for a reason.
If I were to simply put it on my side, it'd be petty.
So, I understand why it happened.

I'm wishing you the best still as I have all that time ago.
And I hope you also know that I am sorry.

Vapor:

Vapor, like Nova and Xeno, was mainly one of the first people I met throughout 2021, and we hung out with the other guys whether it be entirely playing games or such.

But I'll also go straight to the bad influences and actions I've taken in their presence.

- The constant straight-up slurs
- Racist mentions
- Racial insensitive humor

I admit to these which was a constant habit of mine.
These were terrible attempts of me trying to be "funny."
Or to "fit in" through the way people addressed each other with said slur, which most of the others I hung out with at the time kept saying it, they were indeed of color.

The way I tried to justify this was through my nationality, which is Mexican.

(I haven't ever put any thought into it, this is extremely stupid. I apologize profusely to those I offended with this throughout the time.)

It was never okay for me to continue going on like this.

The dementia lying is something I've addressed before.

(For context:)

> On faking dementia which I'm aware is a very serious severe disease, and I apologize for how much disrespectful it's shown.
> I want to admit the very stupid reason why I started doing this back then.
> This mod at the time.
>
>
>
> (Still not dismissing the fact how cringe-worthy this is seen as, or stupid.)
> I mainly did it out of need for attention, NOT the way I could've used to get it but I understand why this was very bad coming from me.

(And adding onto it, I found The Caretaker's music comforting at the time so I figured I'd do something with the whole "lie."
I still regret keeping it going.)

I remember when Vapor had thoughts of becoming trans, and they came to me for my thoughts on it.
(I want to make it clear that I don't hold these thoughts about it as of now.

But the way I handled or responded to Vapor was VERY insensitive and barely elaborated on.)
(I'm also adding what I wrote before because at this time I was very not familiar with it.)

"

I wasn't fully knowledgeable about LGBTQ-related content or its members, so I was going off the results that mostly were negative and I never looked into it until later months/years. „

(I'm not trying to justify what I did towards Vapor's ideas here. I'm stating that I didn't have the proper manner to speak about it.
The way I spoke about it was in a very annoyed way as I got the idea of it pushed to me at a very early age.)
(I'm sorry for the disrespect I gave towards the community with these words.)

Throughout the time the argument happened in the group, comments were made about who they were dating at the time, as best as I can remember some were by "Demo."

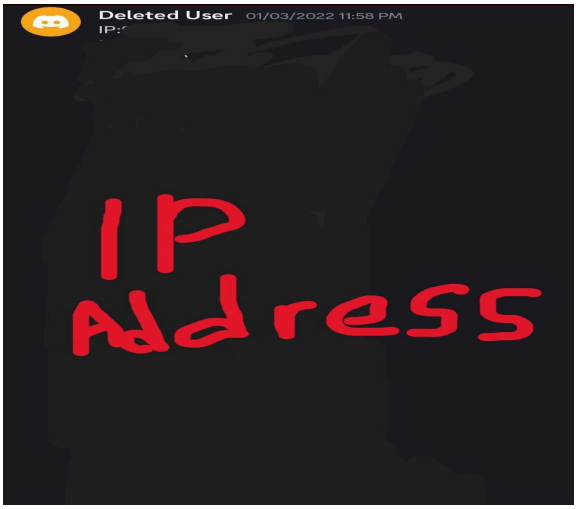

But I take the blame I kept most of it going.

I can't recall well approaching them about it since I do admit I kept most of it hidden to myself.
Looking at the screenshot I kept trying to figure out the reason why I handled the situation like that.

I held a grudge against them in a very petty way.
The date of the doxxing seems a bit off to me, I'm not sure what the context of this message was at the time.

(I’m sorry for the paranoia this made surge out of you and ruined multiple things in your life. I know this won’t change what already caused, happened, and destroyed but do know I’m sorry regardless.)

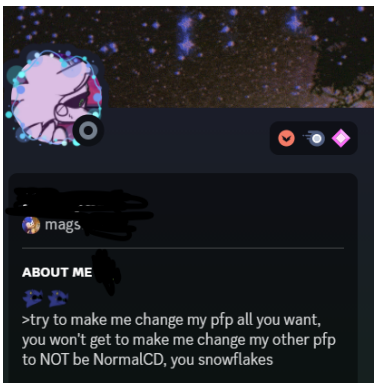

(For reference)

Holding my filter still wasn’t a proper thing when I was around people.
The screenshot of me seeing them in the FNB server was me noticing that they were there after a long time.

I did get into a back-and-forth argument with a moderator because of NormalCD, a character that was owned before by JesterFrog, hence the reputation it held back in the day.
I liked the character a lot, so I believed there wasn’t any harm in still using a picture of them.

(I am now aware of the current removal of NormalCD, as of respect to the victim(s) of the original owner, and confirm this was a very immature way I handled it.)

(For reference, again.)

From my perspective of now:

Vapor, I'm being sincere about this:

Pushing you onto a breaking point and trying to start a fire with you on some mistakes that you've had that weren't that big of a deal was a very heartless thing for me to do towards you.
I took a big part of the group you were part of, away from you.

A part you helped grow, that you spent a lot of time and effort in, simply for it to be kicked away out of your hands by me.
I'm sorry.

You were like a parental figure for me and I tore that down.
All because I never took the moment to realize, understand, and listen.

Also for even dragging Nova and Xeno away from you at the time as well, you deserved to stay with us as much as others,
but clearly,
I didn't let it happen.

I made you go through a living hell of a year and a half because of what I did, and I'm not happy with it.

I’ve been regretting it, and the confrontation made it seem clear how much I’ve hurt you.

I’m hoping the positive goals you’ve achieved now have been more than deserved apart from the healing you’ve been trying to get.

Seeing as throughout of everything already happening, I cannot fix the damage I caused to the groups I’ve harmed, the people I lied to (you included.)

I’m not wanting you to forgive me because of all this.
I’ve realized I only want you to know I am sorry.
I mean it like I’ve meant everything in here.

I hope you do well.

2022 - 2023

Miles:

Miles did approach me because of mainly my Roblox avatars at the time, so we built a friendship out of there later on.

I’ll jump straight to when it started going badly.

Now, due to the habits, the closer I got to him since I looked at him as my little brother, it caused me to depend on him emotionally. You will notice how this became frequent with later people as soon as I continue.

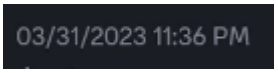

These habits were not healthy at all, it ruined me through many friends and friend groups. In the present which I'm writing, I've done far more to handle this better and prove more self-control.

Since I recently got out of Nova's friend group or what I had as a friend group at the time was like a jolt up out of nowhere.

I used to vent to him a lot of times, almost as it seemed daily, mentally exhausting him.
Not sure what I was thinking at the time I requested if he could just talk softly to me, if I recall, I usually found it more comforting if anything.
When I commented on his face reveal, I didn't think too much of it.

I can see now how me saying it was adorable is weird.
I mostly did it to boost his confidence.
I'm sorry if it came off as that. I didn't intend for it to come off as weird or creepy.
As for the mention of "guessing" their chest size in VC, I can't recall the reason why I did that, though I can see how that was very wrong of me, I apologize for that.

On March 31, 2023

I had another outburst due to a past experience revolving in my head, completely exploding onto him.

I always stumbled onto my words when writing, this doesn't make sense I am very aware.

On what he stated, it's been through the day that I'm speaking of, where I yelled at him so much that I convinced him he was terrible to comfort people. He wasn't. I was being a prick to him, even when I've been thinking about all of it.

He did talk to me about his parents making the decision to make him block me, unfriend me, all of it.

I've been okay with this decision, it was upsetting but it was still suggested that I could go by the name of "bee."
So I agreed.
To talk to him again, even if it wasn't often.

Reading the apology I wrote to him back then, I wasn't sure if it even seemed good enough, but I thought it was all I could do.

For Miles, here's a proper apology from me to you:

The way I handled our sibling relationship and generally when I was supposed to show more of an example to you, I failed.
There's no doubt about that.
I'm sorry for constantly yelling at you, throwing these tantrums towards you, and going off extremely on you when I shouldn't.

I was a terrible sibling to you and didn't manage even to help you when you really needed it, it only caused you to get worse, and I didn't make it any better.

I want you to know that throughout this whole time, I've been thinking about it, I never disregarded how you felt.
I regret how I treated you, I've been regretting it just the same as it kept going with others.

You never deserved the treatment you got.
I hope you get to heal from this, as I've said:
I am sorry. It won't fix what has already happened, but I want you to know that.

I'm not continuing the way I treated you among others.
I just hope you're doing okay somewhere where you're comfortable.
The times I would fight some of your friends, drag you away, and not fully letting you do what YOU wanted to do.

And even so, I'm aware I've been abusive to you, and everyone.
To where I started talking trash about those who I considered my friends at the time too.

I mean what I'm saying here, and I hope it's acknowledgeable.
I'm sorry, Miles.

Nyx:

As they said, we did meet as cosplayers in Funky Friday (this being a Roblox game.)

Elaborating on the first part of what they stated, they are right.
I'm not sure what I was thinking, venting and constantly ranting to someone younger, when it was never meant to be onto them to handle.

I should have sought actual proper professional help from outside, and not gone to them for any help.
I realize it's not okay at all to go to someone younger for help when I am already a grown adult.

It’s not their responsibility what happens to me and I take the blame for that.

I kept being overly negative for attention. I’ve mentioned this already in the other case, but it still is relevant how wrong it was. Hence, why in the screenshots of my conversations with them was me denying any kind of help, as in pushing it away or ignoring any positive outcome.

In the part of them thinking I killed myself, I was in a state of isolation in purpose, I stayed silent for a couple of days, making them and others worry a lot.

During other moments, I would ask them to help me sleep in a vc, which consisted of them playing music and staying there while I slept.
Which greatly destroyed their sleep schedules and barely had time to interact with their friends.
The behavior that I had during it was idiotic. I was WAY too negative. And I’m sorry for that.
Back then, in Funky Friday, whether it be jokingly or roleplay-related, there were indeed [Pico x BF] things going on, though, I really should’ve just cut the cord on it but I let it keep happening.
I hate that I did, but the damage is already done.

The filter I had too wasn’t much better than earlier before in the years, which also explains why I used the word “w##re” a lot. Even with “tw#nk”.

The drawings I made of B3 BF and BF kissing, was an ongoing joke that I had with me. I didn’t see them as weird at the time, but I can see now I should’ve handled it better.
While being jokes on my part, these weren’t okay to even joke about.

Especially with them.

The other drawing that they drew was a birthday gift, I didn't think much of it.
While others were drawings I made at the time, one of them being a self-representation within B3 with exaggerated fake self-harm scars. (This is another insensitive lie that kept going within my "sona."
As I never had real self-harm scars, I will elaborate on that in the next person.

Nyx, after all that:

I am sorry for how I treated you when you tried to help me.
Worrying you when nothing really happened and I was just being over-dramatic IS NOT a way in which I should've given back to you.
As for the "jokes" and such, it was my fault on how I never handled it carefully.
I just let it happen, and I can see the damage it caused you.

Also manipulating you to believe that Nova and the others from the group were on the bad side of things.
(This was an ongoing issue of mine that I kept wrongly continuing with other multiple people which is why I'll be mentioning it multiple times, I'm sorry.)

I am sorry I kept using slurs or heavy words around you, the influence this caused wasn't very appropriate of me.
The exaggerated use of the words "tw#nk", "bottom" and "w##re" showed how immature I was dealing with our friendship whether it was jokingly or not.

That was entirely wrong and I take full responsibility for that.
I'm not sure how you're feeling as of now but I hope you get to heal and find peace in your own time.
You like everyone else deserve to heal.

I know I've caused a lot of pain and worry and for very selfish reasons, and for that, I am deeply sorry.

Miku:

Miku and I met through someone's server, back then in around 2022 to 2023.

I had a bit of an attitude or ego to which I acted or treated others rudely or straight up being a jackass.

I too manipulated her into thinking Nova and the others were bad people.

> (Adding onto as well, since I mentioned I will be saying this multiple times.)

I will be going forward with the other statements in which each situation started getting worse.

In the behavior or the way I was acting in the screenshot she provided, I was going through these "breakdowns" or the outbursts I had when looking back at recent past events where I over-reacted and victimized myself, which looking at it from a while back and now, wasn't okay at all.

I constantly kept asking them if we could match or took any chance I could to match with them, as they were the only person I considered the closest to me and most able to match with.

As time went on, they were also there by when I started going by "bee."

The more we matched BF and GF, I grew a habit to start calling them “Bae.”
(This was already a horrible decision on my end as the word has a romantic undertone and I shouldn’t have ever used it on them, yet did.)
(The way I acted during this wasn’t thought too much of at the time, yet it’s completely clear it was weird to do towards them.)

For the context on this screenshot, I again, sent it in a joking manner.

It was more of a joke, but seeing as how we constantly matched the characters their point still stands.
I take the blame again for this.

As for the drawings that were posted after, they had the same way I elaborated with Nyx’s part, which was this:

“

> The drawings I made of B3 BF and BF kissing, was an ongoing joke that I had with me. I didn’t see them as weird at the time, but I can see now I should’ve handled it better.

”

I’m sorry if my elaborating on this seems lazy, most of these habits and jokes kept continuing with people I was friends with, I know the way I kept handling this was not okay at all.

I always often hung out with them since I considered them the closest friend I had at the time.
So, I kept bothering them to always talk, hang out, play games with them, and such.
I was overly clingy with them, which was usually the source of my behavior, and how they eventually grew tired of it and kept their distance.

During the close days of the confrontation being near, I tried coming clear with what I’d done to them and a few other people.
To which the self-harm scars resulted fake.

The only way I could justify this at the time was old scars I had ever since then, caused naturally and not by me.

Miku, speaking now:

Now, as of the amount of time passing, I admit I got too clingy with you when I shouldn’t have.
I ended up manipulating you and others into believing that the other side was in the wrong.
You witnessed many fights from my end and how I hurt others.
I also hurt you as well throughout it.

I want you to know that I had no intention of hurting you, the habits stuck up to me and revolved into something way worse.
I ended up way more toxic in terms of dealing with people and situations.
I do recognize the way I acted towards you made you uncomfortable more than I can express.

You grew overwhelmed, being dragged away from your own things to do, and when you were to take a break from it, I would act wrongly.
I'm not seeking for you to keep being hurt by this.
I am sincerely sorry.
And will continue to be for the rest of time.

Lying to you, faking several emotions including SELF-HARM and sticking up for the wrong person.

I know I also made fun of some things and people that you see weren't a purpose to make fun of.

Another way of me acting towards you which was mostly the character kinning, I'm not excusing that either.
It was weird, the "breakdowns" or fits that I had also were uncalled for.
It ruined a lot of the friendships you and I were around to the point it made almost everything crumble.

I admit I was weird.
And I am deeply sorry for that.

I'm also hoping you're doing well and if you aren't, I hope it does get better and you get to a point where you have no troubles at all.
I've understood things have changed between the people we met and us, and I have been respecting it.
I genuinely regret my actions and the impact it caused on you and others.
I wish you the best moving forward.

—

These two statements/stories I'll address are from very heavy actions I've made at the time.

I'm sorry if I'm not elaborating well, I've tried the best of my ability to go through each of the pieces before and read carefully to properly write the following.

Jecka (and (K))
(respecting their anonymity) :

(Starting with Jecka)

I met Jecka in the late days of 2021 when I and Nova still were together.
As they stated in their story,
during the early times, they didn't have such a good relationship with their biological family as situations started getting out of hand.
So, I agreed or followed the idea of becoming their online parent.

Time went by between us and the group, stuff went down and the relationships // friendships in the friend group started getting worse.

This would date back to the time Nova broke up with me.

Jecka stood by my side to comfort me, but I eventually started being more petty about the break-up that I dragged them into the bubble I was making since I kept myself away from Nova.

This would not date well since I was being petty from not being able to be with him, so they seemed upset at him unfairly.
This would result in making them try to comfort me almost every time I was feeling down.
(In remarks to the personal therapist issue that's been happening with others.)

After I was away for some time with the people that joined my private friend group, entered Demo.

Demo wondered where I resided or stayed for some time to which I explained, she didn't agree with the idea at first but it seemed it started to revolve around a weird type of "her liking me but not showing it."
(I'll keep it short since this doesn't help with elaboration.)

We sort of got into a relationship, in romantic terms but it never showed as an official relationship, it went off and on most of the time.

Jecka stood as part of this "family" I made back then, but the environment was harmful in a way as Demo and I ended everything with a lot of miscommunication and fights.

During this time I recently got out of the relationship, Jecka was the only company I had at the time, so this revolved around me constantly depending on them to feel comfortable or just not alone in general.

I tried my best to comfort them at the time, however, I was still throughout my bursts of anger or fits so I wasn't that okay either way.
(I'm not dismissing how they have been feeling, I'm stating it wasn't a good idea to try and help when I wasn't even okay at all.)

They had times when they would state they would end their life, to which I replied that I'd "do the same" if it happened.

(Looking at it, not the proper response for a parent to their kid.
I held Jecka important to me, I wasn't as experienced as I am now with handling these types of situations but I can admit I didn't handle it correctly.

This would mark them mentally and be afraid of losing me at the time.)

(The cause of me making heavy situations about myself still were ongoing at this time, so most of what is stated is something I've explained in this document.)

(Adding onto (K) while continuing with Jecka's story.)

During the time I was already single after Nova, I had (K) as a friend of mine, and we also met through Roblox.

We talked frequently, and they've met Nova and the others too.
I didn't feel too fond of it since I had a petty grudge against him.

(K) heard about the break-up with Nova and tried their best to comfort me or keep my head up as I struggled with it at the time.

I eventually started to depend on them emotionally and this led to us talking to each other more frequently.
I would go into rants and also have these bipolar moments where I would end up acting heavily depressed.

This wasn't really the greatest thing turning out for (K) and they cared and would often cry because of it.

(Continuing before me and Demo broke up.)
(Context.)
"

Demo and I ended everything with a lot of miscommunication and fights.

"

Later on, Demo would contact me after a while, mainly because she became friends with (K) or grew close to them, spiraling down into me and her getting into an argument and blocking each other.

This was the point where I only held (K) close while I also eventually joined Miles' friend group.

As time went by, I kept joking inappropriately around them often, to the point I initially forced them to be in a relationship with me.

(This, indefinitely, was one of the WORST things I could do as an adult.
New or not, I've realized how much pain (K) was in during all of this.)

(Date this was back in 2022, I turned 18 in April. They were 15, and about to turn 16 in August, this was in early July.)

(I can't justify in what mind I was to get in this relationship, it didn't turn out well nor did it go well throughout it for the both of us.)

We would end up having some fights, I would grow attached to them, to which on their part they would too but most of it was my fault.
When I would go join Miles and the others at times they'd be available, (K) would get somewhat upset with me and it would escalate into a fight.

This was very occurring and as I grew to be more and more paranoid over losing relationships, I couldn't say anything about it.

Looking back now, I understand that despite these fears, I shouldn't have let that fully control how I acted towards them.
Even while we had our moments when we would be positive towards each other, I would send ship art of characters we'd match.

Most of these would differentiate from being Sonic related, or OMORI.

Mainly FNF too.
I would send most of Amy and Sonic, though they'd stay persistent on Tails.

TW; DEEPER DEPTHS OF NSFW TOPICS.
(Throughout, there were times when they'd send NSFW of something as a joke.)
While we threw inappropriate themes/jokes and they had gone both ways back and forth, I had lacked the self-control to prevent it from getting worse, and it led to me making an NSFW audio.
The topic was something I didn't want to keep remembering, but it had to do with the topic of a "teacher/student" relationship as (K) was going through high school.

(I still am deeply sickened at my actions and the fact that I didn't stop to think about what I was doing, not even fully aware of what my mindset had to be in to think that was okay.)
(I know this had caused a major issue in (K)'s mindset as well and I'm very regretful about it.)

While I was so focused on the relationship, I neglected the time to take care of Jecka when they most needed it.
I kept checking on their vent channel but lacked the courage to try and help.

(While I still hold myself accountable, I struggle to remember myself telling them "You are just half traumatized.")

(Nonetheless, it was rude and insensitive of me.)

I do confirm I jokingly asked if they could redraw a drawing that I drew of (K) and me.
(Adding onto this, again, this behavior // action of mine was NOT okay.)

(Me condoning this, even as a joke to a minor, nonetheless, my OWN child at the time, was very unacceptable from me.
I still feel disgusting about it and I'm holding myself fully accountable for it.)

I would comment on how me and (K) were doing
(even if we kept having fights)
throughout the time to them.

> Then as soon as 2022 ended, around the early days of January, there would be some silence between us both prior to another fight.
> Until they decided to break up and cut me off.

Not only did I worsen emotionally during this time, but I became more additionally clingy to both Jecka, Miles, and my friend group.

(This is elaborated further upwards in this document.)

During the time I was single after, Jecka suggested that they could let their OC be paired with my sona/me at the time to be my "wife." So that I could not feel alone or feel negatively about being single.

(Reading from what they said, I agree. This did indeed go downhill.)

Which was lying about the scars, ongoing drawing requests, and so on.

(I tried to keep a filter around them, however, this would not even be as good as I made some sexual comments/jokes about specific themes and other stuff in their presence.
The fact that I even allowed sexual stuff towards another one of them which was Jecka's online sister still doesn't remove the disappointment I have towards my way of thinking back then.

The mention of them about me talking about their body being flat, despite it sounding very weird, it was not meant to be seen in a creepy or harsh light.

My understanding and thoughts at the time were trying to make sure she didn't oversexualize herself as a minor, but I can see how that came off as weird or overall very off to say towards a minor.)

There were many topics in that they would approve of at the time, but they are aware that looking at it from now was completely immature, disgusting, and inappropriate to keep continuing.

They would be with me in VC sleeping many times as back then that was my way of comfort.

But at times, this would be neglected, forcing them to stay up, keeping themselves awake and waiting for me, and worsening not only their sleep schedule but also their mental state.

Taking accountability for encouraging them to draw NSFW, they indeed suggested the idea for the OC and my sona (at the time.) doing "that."
(While I didn't directly understand if it'd be a proper thing they would initially draw it, I do recall making jokes about it that they took seriously.)

(As seen in the document, those two drawings would be the suggested ideas they gave, one while I was working.)

(Stated previously in other pages, as of the habit of mine to constantly lash out at someone, or have these rage fits, it would take place at a time when I saw that Jecka was venting a lot.

And as much as I saw their partner around, I jumped to conclusions and assumed they weren't even reading Jecka's vents a lot.
Some of them were about their partner and how they felt alone.)

The reason why I've exploded towards Jecka was because of that, but I do admit I went on and on about how they should break up with their partner.
Even going as far as telling them their partner "didn't care about them" as I held so much ego for being their parent at the time.

(I admit dealing with that situation as their "parental figure" wasn't appropriate at all.
Taking into realization how much this affected them still makes me acknowledge the pain I made them go through and I continue to feel regret.)

Continuing with their statements, on Miku's part I will have to elaborate on some parts of this document that I've already written.

"

> The more we matched BF and GF, I grew a habit to start calling them "Bae."
> (This was already a horrible decision on my end as the word has a romantic undertone and I shouldn't have ever used it on them, yet did.)
> (The way I acted during this wasn't thought too much of at the time, yet it's completely clear it was weird to do towards them.)

"

“

I always often hung out with them since I considered them the closest friend I had at the time.
So, I kept bothering them to always talk, hang out, play games with them, and such.
I was overly clingy with them, which was usually the source of my behavior, and how they eventually grew tired of it and kept their distance.

”

However, this still counted as me neglecting my time to properly care for Jecka, as I grew more and more clingier to others.

When I paid attention of word being spread out about me, I gathered Jecka, Miku, and a few others to properly confess about the situations.

(I’m adding this elaboration in Miku’s part to add context too.)

“

During the close days of the confrontation being near, I tried coming clear with what I’d done to them and a few other people.
To which the self-harm scars resulted fake.

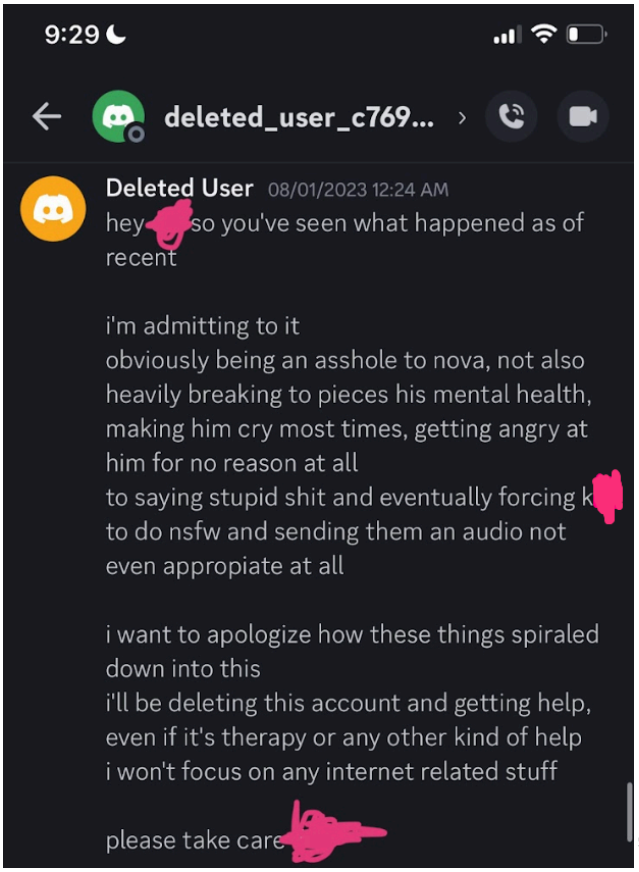

The only way I could justify this at the time was old scars I had ever since then, caused naturally and not by me.

”

(Throughout the days that passed by, at the confrontation they didn’t show up out of guilt and I admit I thought wrongly of that as I thought they had “betrayed” me.)
Then I wrote to them an apology during the confrontation while a lot was going on.

(This can be seen in the confrontation video however I’ll add it here for further context.)

“

”

After that, Jecka replied with their input for their response about it.

Finishing this story, I know as much as they do not forgive me, and I’m not seeking forgiveness.

I should give them apologies to each of them that are properly sincere because they deserve it.

I failed to handle everything the proper way a parent should do, Jecka, and for that:

I’m sorry.

I kept depending on you for comfort when I barely gave anything back.

I continued to expose you to inappropriate themes way too often (including jokes), and a lot of negativity which was uncalled for from me.

You had to go through so much, handling my explosive anger, how I always pushed you away or ignored you when you truly needed my attention, and making you draw those suggestive/inappropriate art pieces of your oc and what used to be my sona.

I understand your fear/trauma response that I initially made you obtain and I regret it deeply still today.

I can only hope that how you're doing now is far better than how you used to feel back then and that you continue to keep healing because it's what you truly deserve.

I was never the greatest parent for you, and I should've done better. I'm sorry for continuing to lie to you about many things, whether it was the fake scars or the panic attacks I had and many more.

You shouldn't blame yourself for doing anything that you've done, you are right, it IS my fault.
And I'm taking full accountability for that.

I will come to my conclusion at the end of this but please know that I am deeply sorry for not handling any of this the way it should've been handled even back then.

I'm aware of how disappointed you still feel and it's very much understandable.

I am indeed not avoiding this and taking accountability just like how I KNOW I need to and you want me to.

I'm sorry, Jecka.

I'm not sure where you may be now or are currently doing/residing in (K), but I'm admitting that:

I never should've depended on you in the first place knowing your age and current mental state.

I should've NEVER forced you to get into a relationship with me at the time because of the constant guilt-tripping I kept pushing onto you just like I did with others.

I made you endure a lot of stress, kept you away from some of your friends because of how clingy I was toward you and I failed to take full responsibility to break it up.

Even if I joked around with you about the very suggestive things, I know how disgusted you feel looking back at what I used to do to you.
This includes the NSFW audio.

I kept manipulating you that Nova, Demo, and the others constantly tried to harm me when that wasn't the matter of what they wanted to do.
I understand the amount of disgust this holds in you and I'm disgusted myself for what I did but it won't dismiss the pain I already caused you.

Our relationship never went well, I shouldn't even have thought of/done drawing suggestive/inappropriate art for you and I hold myself very accountable for that.

I'm sorry for making the entirety of 2022 and the continuation after it pure hell for you.
I'm not aware if you're still around, if you're currently anywhere but if you do read this, please know I am sorry.
It won't fix the wound you hold but I want it to be here.

I should've addressed this sooner but I failed nonetheless.

I hope you're okay now, and if you aren't, I can only wish it gets better and you heal properly.

I'm sorry for everything I've done.

—

ALREADY ADDRESSED THE VICTIMS AS BEST AS I CAN, BUT I WANT TO STILL LEAVE A GENERAL APOLOGY TO OTHERS I'VE HARMED AND GENERALLY ABUSED:

I won't pull any names out of respect for them, but for the people and friends who were part of the situations I've continuously kept damaging, I am sorry.

I'm aware I've made fun of most of you or some people, including times when you got kicked out of the friend group, talked trash about, and so on.
I can't fix what I've done and that's why I'm releasing this.
I'm not aware of each of your current situations as of now, but I want all of you to be able to heal and not keep getting hurt because of this that happened a year ago.

I've harmed those who are important or were important to you, there is no excuse for what I did, and I am truly sorry for that.

Still looking at the way I've said and treated things back in 2021, I'm not proud at all with the way I've had terrible assumptions of whether it be LGBTQ+ related content or general people of color, and I am sorry for joking/addressing each in a very disrespectful way.

I’m not using these words or pro-longing each out of being exaggerated.
I’m being genuine with everything I wrote here.

Looking at how I was back then wasn’t ever a good way of how I turned out to be.

There are a lot of different changes that have happened ever since, in regard to how I used to view things before.
I’m sorry and I deeply apologize/admit for manipulating/grooming multiple people, including minors, faking self-harm scars, and continuously lying about suffering from dementia, and heart attacks including panic attacks at the time and as of recent times.

Before I end this document with my departure out of respect and proper management for those I’ve harmed and out of the wishes that have been said in the closing message of the document,

I want to apologize to my recent ex-partners as of which as well:

I won’t name any of you because I respect all of your privacy unless those who have already came out to talk about it since the release of the document about me.

Nevertheless, I’ve realized within most of you that I’ve continued my harmful habits of lashing out/manipulating/overall clinginess, and uncalled paranoia because of past experiences within my life.

I’ve realized I repeated my aggressive nature a lot with a lot of you, even those I’ve considered family, and grew dependent on each of you when it wasn’t necessary.

The pain was already caused, and the wound is there, but I want to take the step to properly apologize and let each of you heal.

As best as I can recall of now, I've dated 8 people throughout the end of 2023 and what was of 2024.

I am sorry for how I treated each of you, you never deserved it and for those who have gotten a better outcome, I hope you stay within the area that heals you.

I'm sorry.
—

As for those who were my friends recently, followers, or people who have looked up to me (seen me as any type of parental figure, brother, sister, and so on)

I'm sorry for not coming clear about the person I used to be, the actions I've caused, and the harm that was already put onto others.

I'm sorry for breaking your trust, and your general view of me, and I understand that most of you are disappointed and disgusted by what came to be my past actions.

I tried taking my time with the writing of this document to make sure it's known that I'm indeed acknowledging my actions and taking accountability for each of them.

I'm not seeking forgiveness from each one of you, I want you all to know that I'm very sorry for how everything came out to be.

And to the family I've built, I'm sorry for making it all go down because of this.
This is my fault, and I am regretful of it.
—

I DON’T WANT YO-KAI (MY PARTNER) TO BE ASSOCIATED WITH THIS OR DRAGGED INTO THIS, SO PLEASE RESPECT HER WISHES TO LEAVE HER OUT OF IT.

I DON’T WANT HER TO BE BOTHERED ABOUT THIS AS SHE’S NOW TAKING THE TIME TO PROPERLY HEAL FROM THIS AND SHE DOESN’T WISH TO BE CONTACTED ABOUT IT.

THIS IS MY ONLY REQUEST.

I WILL BE DEPARTING / GETTING OFF FROM MY PLATFORMS/ACCOUNTS TO INPUT MORE TIME INTO MYSELF AND THE WAY I BEHAVE AROUND OTHERS.
THIS MEANS I WILL NOT DELETE THE ACCOUNTS IN ORDER FOR IT TO NOT BE SEEN AS ME AVOIDING THE SITUATION.

(In other words, I will be taking the time necessary to add more proper change to my future actions and behavior.)

(I am not sure of how much it will take, but I will be away.)

I genuinely wish the best of every single person who has known me a lot of positive outcomes in their life.

Please don’t try to come after anyone who has known me, people I’ve taken care of/held as my online family/ people that I’ve considered family, and anyone else who was close to me out of respect for them, please.

—

TL;DR

I’ve manipulated/groomed/encouraged/sent inappropriate stuff to multiple minors/people/friends back then, also admitting that I’ve suicide-baited, faked self-harm, lied to, stalked, and abused emotionally and verbally people too.

I’ve been confronted about it and I should’ve taken the proper move to leave and keep working on myself but I didn’t choose to.

I’ve acknowledged the disappointment this caused in many people and re-opened wounds in others and I'm taking full responsibility to work on it and properly get off from each platform.

Not to dismiss that some of these habits have pertained in some of my recent relationships as I was trying to go off by a new choice of life.

—

I do not want this to be looked at as some sort of "blank apology" as the other document stated.

I've taken my time to write this within the past few days since the release of the document to genuinely show effort that I do indeed regret the way I used to be.

But I will be logging off to not cause any harm to others as they wish.

The actions that I've caused as "Mags" will never leave me and will continue to be there as they already happened. But I've no longer continued these actions from the words that I say today.

Without anything else here,
I am sorry for everything.

—

This is Berri,
Cinna,
XML,
Lila,
signing off.