10. Documented Abilities		11. Weaknesses / Counter-Measures
Reality Manipulation: Mild telekinesis, able to manipulate small to medium-sized objects with his mind. Healing: A mild boost in healing factor, allowing for quick recovery from wounds received in the field. Fire Manipulation: Wyvern has appeared to unlock a portion of his powers, now showing signs of pyro kinetics. Being able to manipulate flames, and even produce flames from seemingly nothing. This has progressed into being able to change the temperature of the air around him. He can light himself on fire. He can choose what does and does not burn. Has shown to be able to shoot flames up to 60 ft. He can also produce flames hot enough to melt tungsten.		No different than a normal person, just takes a little bit more to kill. All weak spots of a person are weak spots for “Wyvern” However, he shows irritation at the presence of a reality anchor, mentioning symptoms of migraine, fatigue, nausea, and chills. - This has progressed into the heat of his flame diminishing if not being completely extinguished. - this has further progressed to him being able to practically ignore it completely. Seems to have a strange irritation on skin contact with water. - This has progressed into water actively annoying him when exposed to large amounts of it.
		12. Anomalous Background
		During a mission being carried out by a UNGOC taskforce they came upon a TE of unknown origins. The UTE was in the process of attacking a civilian researcher named Wally, during the liquidation process of the entity, an explosion occurred rendering Wally unconscious. The explosion caused by the liquidation appears to have affected Wally, in a way leading to his ability to manipulate reality around him in minor ways. Though he does not show signs of further powers gained, we cannot rule out that he has not reached his full potential.
