

Derek's Joke

A policeman in Sydney pulled over a driver who had been weaving in and out of the traffic.

He approached the car window and said

"Sir I need you to blow into this breathalyser".

The man reaches into his pocket and produces a doctor's note. On it was written:

"This man suffers from chronic asthma. Please do not make him perform any action that may leave him short of breath".

The policeman said "Okay, then I need you to come and give a blood sample"

The man produced another letter. This one said:

"This man is a haemophiliac. Please do not cause him to bleed in any way".

So the officer said:

"Right, I need a urine sample then".

The man produces a third letter from his pocket. It read:

"This man plays cricket for England, please don't take the piss out of him".