

Author Interview With Kira Adams by Itsy Bitsy Book Bits

For those new to your work, please tell us a bit about yourself, your books and their genre/s

- I am a self-published author with 16 books available. They range from YA/NA contemporary romance to romantic suspense and even post-apocalyptic.

What's Your Favorite Genre to Write?

- Romance

What lessons have you learned as a writer?

- Write what you want to read!

If you could spend the day with one of your characters, who would it be and what would you do?

- I would spend the day with Lee from Beautifully Broken. He's always been one of the top men in my books. He is so outgoing and handsome we would have fun doing anything! He's also a personal trainer, so work me out daddy!

What's your writing routine? (Outline or go with the flow of your character)

- I really do not have one. Outlining tends to bode better for me because structure helps me write faster and more consistently...but honestly 85% of the time I pants it!

How much of yourself do you put into your books and characters?

- A lot. There is also a lot of my family, friends, and environments mixed in.

If you won the lottery what would you do with the money?

- Change the world. Create multiple sources of income and so many jobs. Open a homeless shelter, restaurant, recording studio, music label, publishing company, etc. Give back to those who need it most.

In your everyday life how do you give back to the world?

- I make homeless baskets and give those out. I also send out regular packages for my readers birthdays if they are in my group.

If you could give your younger self one piece of writing advice, what would it be?

- Don't rush. As exciting as publishing is, it's a process. Get the editor. Get the formatter. Proof the shit out of it.

If your life was a song what song would it be and why?

- Baby You Wouldn't Last a Minute on this Creek - Chiodos and because life is like that. If you don't give it your all, you fail. It's also hardest to walk away from the things you know are bad for you.

Name two authors you wish more people knew about

- Shane Morgan & Alora Kate!

Would you say your writing style is more character driven or plot driven?

- Character driven I think but my readers always tell me how much they like the places my characters visit and the worlds I build.

Who are some of your favorite authors to read?

- Colleen Hoover, Tijan, Mitch Albom

What are some of your hobbies?

- Singing, Acting, Hanging out with friends, watching Netflix, performing at open mics!

Have you attended any signings? If so, what was your favorite thing about it?

- I have attended as a reader but not as an author. I've always wanted to and then the world got shutdown.

When reading reviews, what is something you love to see written?

- I love when people relate to a character and maybe the relationship building inside the novel.

What are you currently working on?

- I am working on re-releasing my first series, The Infinite Love Series and the second book will be coming in March. I'm also working on the fourth book in my zombie series.

Do you have any superstitions when it comes to writing? If so, what?

- Not really.

What is the best writing advice you've ever received?

- Just keep writing. No matter what.

What books are currently in your to-read list?

- I really want to read Verity or Layla by Colleen Hoover.

What is your favorite book made into a movie/tv show?

- The Hunger Games

You are filling out this interview as part of a tour with Itsy Bitsy Book Bits. What made you choose Itsy Bitsy Book Bits?

- I have used IBBB in the past!

What is something people would be surprised to know about you?

- I'm an indie pop singer as well.

Do you read & review other authors' books? If yes how often?

- I used to way back when I had more time and Amazon didn't flag you.

Which one of your characters was the hardest to develop?

- Probably most of my characters from my Darkness Falls series.

Which character was your favorite to write?

- Topher from Learning to Live.

How do you keep yourself motivated through the whole writing process?

- I touch base with my readers group, post teasers on social media, research, and more.

Does anyone read your works in progress? (Family, Friends, etc)

- I have beta readers who vet my books before they go to the editor. They help me find out what is and isn't working.

Do you ever reread books or series? If so what is a series, book Or author you could reread over and over?

- I used to do this a lot back in elementary and middle school with Sweet Valley High college books.
