

I have already informed my family that I will not be able to afford an expensive nursing home which would allow me to die with dignity. I don't want to be cremated in a cardboard box with fake plastic gold handles or laid to rest in one of those letterbox wall thingymajigs on an artificial turf lawn either and so my friends I am taking things into my own hands

I have moved to South America. I want to spend my final years enjoying life, having a beer on the beach beneath the warm subtropical sun and I want to die in dignity.
