

Language Arts Vocabulary

Archaeologist: (noun) someone who studies old buildings and civilizations

Artifact: (noun) something that a human made long ago such as a tool or weapon

Colony: (noun) a region that another country controls

Currency: (noun) a type of money that is used in an area

Examine: (verb) to examine is to look at it closely

Galleon: (noun) a large sailing ship that was used hundreds of years ago

Merchant: (noun) someone who buys or sells items

Preserve: (verb) to keep something safe from harm

Route: (noun) a path to go someplace

Trade: (verb) to exchange one thing for another