Program Description

This is a two-year program that leads to a Master's of Education (M.Ed.) with a specialization in World Languages (WL) and Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE). The program includes: coursework, completing the ISTE portfolio, and writing a graduating seminar paper.

The 2-year M.Ed Pathway has a long and rich tradition as an intensive graduate teacher-preparation program. In two years, students complete 30 credits of graduate coursework and a seminar paper. Our students graduate with a Master's degree from a nationally-ranked public university.

What sets our programs apart from other teacher preparation pathways in the area is our commitment to preparing students to work effectively with diverse students, to attend closely to student thinking, and to be empowered decision-makers in the classroom. Furthermore, as graduates from the M.Ed program, all teacher candidates are well-prepared to consider continued educational opportunities at the University of Maryland, including our Doctoral programs.

The two-year M.Ed program provides an opportunity for students looking for a career in language teaching. This M.Ed pathway may be compatible with students who already work full-time or part-time. If needed, reach out to us at anperez@umd.edu for more information.

Program Advantages

Graduate-Level Degree Program: The Curriculum and Instruction program in the Department of Teaching and Learning, Policy and Leadership (TLPL) at the University of Maryland College Park is ranked 17th in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. M.Ed students receive instruction from high-caliber faculty and explore in-depth opportunities to connect content and pedagogy. M.Ed students benefit from a two year course load (in lieu of a thesis), which culminates into the writing of a graduate seminar paper. M.Ed students present their seminar paper at the end of the program.

Location: The University of Maryland's reputation and location near Washington, D.C. provides students with a wealth of opportunities to work in diverse school districts, collaborate with educational associations, and engage in meaningful, practical research.

Admission Process

Admission to M.Ed is selective. The faculty review committee uses the following three criteria to evaluate applications:

Academic Preparation: Applicants must show excellence in the completion of an undergraduate degree in an appropriate academic discipline. We are looking for students with a minimum GPA of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale from their baccalaureate degree. Moreover, applicants must have completed the required academic content for the intended certification area. However, the completion of the requirements can still be in progress at the time of the application. Applicants, who do not meet the 3.0 GPA requirement but are in the range of 2.8-2.99 or have successfully completed a graduate degree, are still encouraged to apply as applicants are evaluated based on a combination of grades, professional experiences, and outlook on teaching.

Relevant Experience with Children or Young Adults: It is critical that applicants have some experience working with children in the appropriate age group as evidence that they are prepared to make an informed commitment to the teaching profession. Appropriate activities can include coaching, mentoring, tutoring, volunteering, substitute teaching in a local school, or other relevant experiences.

Professional Potential: The 2-year M.Ed program is looking for candidates who demonstrate the following: A learner-centered educational philosophy; Self-knowledge, maturity, and sensitivity toward others; Ability to adapt to, and learn from, new and challenging situations; and Written and oral communication skills.

There is no "typical" M.Ed student. Individuals come to our programs from a wide variety of backgrounds and with a broad array of life experiences. Our previous students have graduated from UMD or other institutions, changed careers or entered this program after years out of the workforce and educational environment. The M.Ed Team designed the program with the expectation that prospective students enter the program with competence in their subject matter and have completed the state-required academic courses relevant to their field.

Course Prerequisites

Option A. Transcripts showing the following courses in the target language:

- Reading and Writing
- Advanced Conversation
- Two Advanced Grammar and Composition classes (e.g., Heritage Language Learners, Language Variation, Translation, etc.)
- Three Linguistics classes (e.g., Language Structure, Phonetics and Phonology, etc.)
- Three Culture/Literature/Civilization classes
- Two Upper-Level Culture/Literature classes

Requests for Preliminary Transcript Review:

A preliminary transcript review by the College of Education advising office is required for M.Ed applicants who are applying for World Languages. The review can be requested online at: https://umdsurvey.umd.edu/jfe/form/SV_9EUV51GOaZS8Cai. Please submit your request 2 to 4 weeks prior to submitting your Graduate School application. The completed review should be uploaded to your application.

Important to Note: If you do not yet have your completed preliminary transcript when you are ready to submit your application, it is okay to submit your application without it. In that case, please email it to kmoon@umd.edu and we will upload it for you. It is also okay to submit an application without entirely completing any necessary prerequisite courses.

Option B. If you are fluent and have received formal education in the target language but do not have the classes, please contact the WL program coordinator at anperez@umd.edu or the Chinese WL supervisor at yzhang88@umd.edu and be ready to share your responses to the following questions:

Have you had any work experiences or life experiences with the target language, linguistics, literature, culture, or history outside of your undergraduate courses? Examples: teaching Chinese to native English speakers in China using an approved curriculum; working in a Spanish history museum; serving as a cultural tour guide in Germany, etc.

In some cases, such experience might substitute for specific required undergraduate courses in the target language, linguistics, literature, culture, or history for admissions purposes. For each relevant experience, (a) tell us what you did, (b) what you learned from it, (c) the dates (beginning and ending), (d) the name and place of the institution, and (e) anything else you think we should know about your relevant experience in the target language, linguistics, literature, culture, or history outside of your undergraduate courses. Basic skills test scores in the target language may be required prior to admission.

Statement of Purpose: Please use the listed prompts, not the questions on the Graduate School application: Submit a 1,000-2,000 word essay that describes your understanding of the role of the public school teacher. Limit your discussion to a specific academic discipline that you are interested in teaching. Be sure to address the following:

- Why do you want to become an educator? Describe what experiences helped you make this decision.
- In your experience, what does a good teacher know? What skills, strategies or actions do good teachers use? (examples may include but are not limited to: creates a positive learning environment, knows students, has a passion for the content area, engages students in learning, conveys a love of learning, believes all students can succeed, etc.)
- What does teaching a diverse population mean to you? (Diverse learners might include students who have different abilities or who are neurodiverse, students who are LGBTQIA, or students from various ethnic, cultural, religious, socioeconomic, or linguistic backgrounds. This list is not exhaustive.)
- What do you hope to learn from this program so you can become a great teacher?

Resume: Please upload the most current resume that includes academic, professional, and volunteer experience and involvement with children and young adults. It is okay to include information that otherwise would not go on a professional resume. We will evaluate previous experience based on the following:

- Show experience working with children or youth in the age group you are interested in teaching.
- Show experience working in tutoring, coaching, or other instructional settings with children or youth.
- Show experience working with children or youth identified as individuals with disabilities, from non- dominant ethnic and cultural communities, speakers of languages other than English, or immigrant families.

Introduction to Foundational Competencies (FC) & Model Code of Ethics for Educators (MCEE): All graduate students who are in an approved program leading to initial teacher certification, or advanced certification, in professional preparation programs, are expected to demonstrate that they are prepared to work with children and youth in educational settings. This preparation results from the combination of successful completion of university coursework and field/internship experiences and the demonstration of important human characteristics and dispositions that all educators should possess. Applicants to the M.Ed program are required to review the Foundational Competencies (FC) & Model Code of Ethics for Educators (MCEE) Introduction and submit an acknowledgement survey. A PDF copy of the completed acknowledgement survey must be uploaded to the TerpEngage Application. https://umdsurvey.umd.edu/jfe/form/SV_bHhjk8jmRtwDL8i

Three Letters of Recommendation: Applicants must include the names and emails of three recommendation providers as required in the application. Once the applicant saves the information, an email will go to the letter providers with instructions on how to complete the recommendation survey and upload the recommendation letter.

It is strongly recommended that applicants choose recommenders who can evaluate their teaching and learning abilities and are either in the field of education, a field closely related to the applicant’s content area of interest, works with the target age group (kids and/or adolescents) of the applicant’s content area of interest, and/or works with diverse populations.

At least one should be from a faculty member familiar with your academic work and ability to succeed in graduate study. In addition, the letters should address your character and your organizational skills. Letters from friends and family members are not appropriate.

Basic Skills Test Scores: Teacher Candidates applying for certification in all academic content areas must demonstrate mastery of basic reading, writing, and math skills. Those teacher candidates who submit a minimum overall GPA of 3.0 on their most recently earned degree are not required to submit a basic skills assessment. Other applicants must take one of the following exams and meet the required Maryland Department of Education (MSDE) cut-off scores. If taking the Praxis CORE exam, you must pass each of the three individual sections. We will not grant conditional or provisional admissions for applicants pending the successful completion of the Praxis exam who do not have a 3.0 grade point average. However, we will review an applicants' file for admission if they have passed at least 2 out of 3 of the Praxis sections. Applicants can upload test score reports to one of the supplementary slots in the application. (Institution Code 5814)
