

Last Updated: 14 February 2022

This Privacy Policy provides information regarding the manner in which MR Gaming Technologies collects user information, maintains, and discloses it to third party service providers. The policy applies to users of each product of MR Gaming Technologies (Apps/Games), including the services associated with them.

We may collect several information in different categories,

Information collected when you use our products/services

Data collected through technical analysis

Information you provide through third party service providers like Social Media Platforms (Google+, Facebook, and Twitter) with respect to our product usage.

Device Information collected during App Installation & Usage

Location information and other data collected by third party advertisement for displaying relevant ads

This information may include your name, unique username, pictures of yourself, e-mail address, date of birth, phone number.

Some of the information is collected technically, while you use our Mobile Games or Services associated with them. Your device information like Mobile id, Internet Protocol Address, Hardware type, language, browsers, and operating system. It also contains location specific information using GPS (Global Positioning System), Advertising ID, MAC (Media Access Control) address, IMEI (International Mobile Equipment Identity), and referring information associated, i.e. Emails and Website Addresses.

When you connect to Social media accounts using third party plugins like Apple's Game Centre and Facebook Connect, we may consistently collect your personal information, which you allow from the social media site to be available to MR Gaming Technologies. The MR Gaming Technologies may consequently collect certain information from your social networking profile, when the network permits to make that information available. In such cases the information available publicly on your profile, such as name, e-mail address, user ID, profile pictures, and content made available like posts, likes, comments, and media. You have complete rights on the personal data, we collect, maintain, and use by adjusting your privacy settings.

MR Gaming Technologies has the right to gather non-personal information occasionally from users of its products (Mobile Games & Apps). This information includes user's activity, interaction, time of gameplay, levels completed, interactions with other players, and any sort of interaction with our Mobile Games and or Services.

In order to analyse the activity of our users, as an element of our services, we may use third party analytic tools, such as Flurry Analytics, Google Analytics, Facebook Audience Network, etc. The data collected from these services is used in the efforts of improving our products. These third party tools/services may store Usage information and Personal Information collected during analysis on their servers and are governed by their respective privacy policies. You can get a list of data analytic tools we use, by reaching out at mrmahmoodrazadev\(at\)gmail.comgmail.com).

Our product's feature advertising during the usage, which in regard refers to third party technologies for the collection of information. You may "Opt Out" of certain advertising features like targeted ads, by visiting the official websites of the service providers. Therefore please visit <http://www.youradchoices.com> and/or www.networkadvertising.org for the purpose. MR Gaming Technologies may also use advertising partners that are not reachable from the above links and has the right to display certain targeted advertisements.

The specific information collected with respect to the advertising purpose, shall be governed by this Privacy Policy document and the Privacy Policies of those third party technology providers. Please note that, even if you opt-out of targeted advertisement features, we have rights to display advertisements not personalised to you. If you like to completely opt-out from targeted advertisements, please stop using our services and get your access removed.

How do we use collected information?

MR Gaming Technologies may use the personal information collected for different purposes:

- To improve our products and service

The information gathered by us or the third party services is used to improve our Mobile Games and its functionalities.

How do we protect your personal and non-personal information?

We at Mixi Gaming Studio work with appropriate data storage, collection, and processing security measures to protect your data from any kind of loss. Our security measures ensure no one has unauthorised access to the collected data.

Sharing your personal information with third party

MR Gaming Technologies will never trade, sell, or rent personal information to any third party vendors. But we might share demographic information which is non-personal to our business partners and advertisers. The usage is governed under specific instructions mentioned above.

Changes to this Privacy Policy Document

MR Gaming Technologies has complete rights to update, amend, or change the privacy policy statement. We will notify our users for the update using suitable means of communication or instantly updating this privacy document. However, we still motivate our users to read this page frequently for any changes or updates. By using our services, you agree that it's your responsibility to stay updated with the changes in the Privacy Policy.

Your acceptance of these terms

If you continue using our products (Mobile Games), your usage is governed by this Privacy Policy Document. You hereby Accept this policy and Agree to each term mentioned above. If you have any kind of issues with the terms mentioned or do not agree with it, you must not use our services. The continuous usage of our service will be considered as your Acceptance.

Getting in Touch with Us

Please feel free to get in touch with our representatives, in case you have any questions regarding the Privacy Policy or your usage of our products. Please use the following details:

MR Gaming Technologies

Address:

Green Town, Barki Lahore, Pakistan.

mrmahmoodrazadev@gmail.com