Helping Public Safety Professionals Reach Their Highest Potential

The Leader's Role as Coach, Counselor, Motivator, and Mentor hosted by

Broward Community College
Institute of Public Safety

This dynamic workshop is designed to help Supervisors and Field Training Officers develop leadership and supervisory skills needed to effectively coach, counsel, motivate, and mentor their subordinates. Through a combination of instructional guidance and interactive exercises, this workshop provides students with valuable insights and strategies for addressing the work performance of their subordinates and inspiring them to achieve their agency and career goals. Specifically, the workshop guides students on how to apply proven leadership and supervision techniques in helping their employees perform at their best and reach their highest potential. (This workshop has been approved for mandatory retraining credits through the Florida Criminal Justice and Standards Commission.)

Instructor Background

Colonel Tim Gillette (Ret.) served over 36 years with the Broward Sheriff's Office where he was a Field Training Officer, Supervisor, Commander, Police Chief, and the Executive Director for the Department of Law Enforcement. He has Doctoral degrees in Organizational Leadership and Higher Education Leadership, an M/S degree in Public Administration, and a B/S degree in Journalism. He is a graduate and valedictorian of the Southern Police Institute and a graduate of the Senior Management Institute for Police.
