FLOWERY LANGUAGE

Eloquent and elegant. Comfortable with the speech and mannerisms of high society, allowing her to coerce and get along with like minded folk. On the flipside, such fancy schmancy speak will likely rub (in her words) "peasants" the wrong way.

PERSONALITY

- + Composed | Meticulous | Responsible | Affable | Eloquent | Demure | Dutiful
 - Fussy | Perfectionist | High Achieving
- * Prideful | Self-Righteous | Judgemental | Selfish | Greedy | Snobbish

The very definition of 3 Ps: Poised, proper, and prepared. With her back straight, chin up, posture perfect, Blume carries herself with an air of grace and dignity akin to that of a princess. Meticulous and responsible, she carries out duties diligently to the best of her abilities. She approaches social situations with a well mannered and affable attitude, unafraid to chat up her peers with gifts of goodwill, or lend them a helping hand if they require. The very pinnacle of demure benevolence, fresh as flowers.

Unfortunately even the brightest blooms come with their own thorns. When push comes to shove, Blume becomes very assertive of her position. Prideful and self-righteous, she doesn't take kindly to people suggesting otherwise of what she believes to be her good intentions, causing her to come across as an insufferable snob when feeling wronged. Definitely one to hold a grudge.

Overall, Blume tries to present herself as an eloquent and caring person. But only when others respond in kind.

BIOGRAPHY

To call the glass full would be an understatement when Belladonna's birthright was absolutely brimming with textbook perfection. Two rich, successful parents and their darling daughter. A family steeped in luxury that resided in the midst of Shoulder Hill. The Florentine family has made a name for themselves within the field of medicine, being skilled surgeons with astonishing satisfaction rates. They would often feed their daughter heroic tall tales about saving others and easing their suffering, encouraging them both to do the same. Young Belladonna grew up admiring them, wishing to grow as a good person and inherit the family business.

Fast forward years later, passing medical school with flying colours, she is perfectly fine and happy, fast tracking her dream as a physician in the family hospital. Aiding all that pass through their doors until an unfortunate accident.

Shame, she feels she still has much to offer to the waking world.

MISCELLANEOUS

- Often tended to the Florentine's lush greenhouse. It became a cherished hobby. Learned all her knowledge on flowers, plants, and herbs through that.
- Though well educated, the same cannot be said for her street smarts. Not versed with memes and internet culture etcetc. (lenevoice please clown on her)
- Needs reading glasses. (Yes)
