

Hey prof its @Ambassadorr

I think I am momentum trader. My first priority is looking for stock price and act on what market trend is. If market bullish I plan my levels before market open and when I reach there I quit. If market bearish I wait for bullish action to get on the market

I can be swing or scalp trader its changing because it depends on stock price or my free time on a day

I don't have a risk parameter because I am trading on stocks and for my experience if I wait I win all the time but I have risk-time parameter. If I didn't see an opportunity on another stock I stay to win, what I lose

Entry: I am looking for price at first and if price make chopping I am using 50MA and 9MA for entry

Quit: If I reach my zone I quit